GENERAL SCOTT SENDS
REPORT TO SECRE-TARY OF WAR.

EL PASO, Texas, April 22.—Brigadier General Pershing has made such disposition of his forces that the American punitive expedition is equally ready today to proceed quickly in pursuit of Villa or withdraw from Mexico when the future course of operations is determined by the administration at Washington. The troops can be retired from Mexico in ten days, according to army officers at Fort Bliss.

Carranza officials at Juarez reported the situation generally quiet throughout Upper Mexico and said every preparation has been made to suppress any disorders that might arise. The Parral district is being filled with Carranza troops and guards have been thrown about mining properties.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 22.—Secretary of War Baker should be in receipt of a report before night from Major General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the army, that may assist the administration in deciding whether to withdraw the American troops or send them farther into Mexico.

General Funston has received reports showing movements of Carranza troops in the district penetrated by General Pershing and others have been sent to General Pershing authorizing him to prepare for any aggression.

Carranza officials have given plausible reasons for moving the forces of General Arnulfo Gomez eastward from Sonora, the troops of General Luis Herrera south from Chihuahua to Parral, and a considerable force towards Casas Grandes, but should the war office at Mexico City decide later to use these forces to prevent further military operations, General Pershing will be prepared for any situation.

Until late last night, Generals Scott and Funston discussed the developments of the pursuit of Villa that began with promised co-operation by Carranza troops and ended, or practically ended, with a warning to Colonel W. C. Brown at Santa Cruz by a Carranza official that he must not advance south of that point.

General Pershing's reports, which are said to contain recommendations that radical changes be authorized, probably will be gone over carefully today. Overnight dispatches from the front indicated no renewed offensive activity. The pursuit of the bandit chieftain remained practically at a standstill and the impression is gaining strength at departmental headquarters that the troops will be withdrawn.

VILLA FADING AWAY.

Dead or Alive, Bandit Becomes Minor Figure in Crisis.

EL PASO, Texas, April 22.—A troop train left Juarez today with several hundred members of the Juarez garrison on board who have been ordered to Casas Grandes. According to Mexican officials these troops are not intended as a reinforcement of the Casas Grandes garrison but will replace the soldiers now there who will be sent to Matamoros.

ALLIES REPULSE GERMAN ATTACK ON WEST LINES

Russians Pass Through Lyons on Way to the Front.

SOFIA IS BOMBARDED

French Prosecute Millers
Who Ignore the Legal Grain Prices.

The Germans have resumed the offensive before Verdun, putting their infantry in action on both banks of the Meuse but failing to gain additional ground, according to the French war office bulletin.

The principal attempt to advance was made east of the Meuse following an intense bombardment. Paris reports that the French artillery foiled the attempt and caused the Germans heavy losses. The scene of this fighting was between the river and Fort Vaux.

To the west, just beyond the Meuse, the Germans put liquid fire into play in attacking the French lines north of the Caurettes woods, but the assault is declared to have been barren of advantage to the Crown Prince's forces.

In the Balkans a French aeroplane made a 400-mile flight from the allied lines to Sofia and return, dropping four large-calibre bombs on a Zeppelin shed in the Bulgarian capital. Other points behind the lines also were bombed by French airplanes, the Dobruja region being given especial attention.

Berlin reports a futile attack by the French on the Dead Man's Hill region northwest of Verdun. The Paris statement declares the Germans attacked here and succeeded in gaining a footing in the French first line but were afterward ejected.

An attack north of Ypres is admitted by Berlin to have resulted in the recovery by the British of about a third of the six hundred yards of trenches taken by the Germans recently.

PARIS, April 22.—An intense bombardment of the French front before Verdun, between the Meuse and Fort Vaux, was followed last night by an attempt on the part of German troops to advance. The war office announcement of this afternoon says the advance was prevented by the artillery fire of the French which inflicted heavy losses on the Germans.

The statement also says a German attack north of Caurette wood, in which liquid fire was used, was repulsed.

DRAGUINAN, France, April 22.—Millers of the departments of Bouches-du-Rhone and Vaucluse, who disregarded the maximum retail price of flour fixed last December for the department of war are being prosecuted. Pending the outcome of their trial they have been excluded from the list of millers entitled to receive wheat from the government's stock for provisioning the department of war.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 22, via Lon.—A British camp on the Suez canal has been attacked by a Turkish aeroplane, the war office announced today. The airship dropped bombs and returned successfully.

First Photo of Presidential Couple

This is the first photograph taken of President and Mrs. Wilson together since they were married. Here, for a reason, photographers in Washington have never been able to learn, over-insane secret service men have always walked in front of the camera when they tried to snap Mrs. Wilson. This picture was taken as the couple left D. A. R. hall, where the President had just finished his address welcoming the delegates of the order to Washington.

BOND ISSUES HOLD CHIEF INTEREST IN TUESDAY ELECTION

Primary to be Overshadowed owed by Program of Improvement.

Voters to Get First Taste of Presidential Preference Test.

By David W. Bowman.

Interest in the presidential preference primary and the election of delegates and alternates to the state and national conventions will be greatly overshadowed in Lima, Tuesday. Bond issues for three-quarters of a million dollars will hold the center of the stage as far as this city is concerned. In fact, the absence of warm contests has been responsible for a lack of interest in the primary, but the improvement program involving the future of Lima will draw out a large vote unless the weather is unusually inclement.

Never before has a bond issue campaign attracted the interest manifested in the trio which will be submitted to the electorate Tuesday. During the past week nightly meetings have been held under the auspices of a committee of interested citizens with the welfare of Lima at heart. In two school houses each night speakers have battled down opposition of the skeptical, producing logical arguments to meet the questions advanced by those whose misinformation fostered antagonism. The response has been flattering. In each of the large factories meetings have been held in order to line up the working class, and promises of support have been numerous. There will be little done Monday save the reminding of the voters that an election occurs Tuesday. This is to prevent the defeat of the trio of improvement projects by the "stay-at-home" vote, often a powerful factor in the defeat of progress.

Tuesday marks the first presidential preference primary in which the voters of Ohio have ever participated. The force of the recorded opinion is conjectural, for there is no way of preventing a delegate from doing as he believes best after the first ballot. In fact, the expression of preference is more useful for advertising purposes than for actual binding. To saddle one duty on a delegate is to rob him of the use of his judgment, and the excitement and delirium of a great convention

U. S. SEEKS MORE PLOT INDICTMENTS IN NEW YORK CITY

Officials Say Great Number
Are Implicated in Wide Conspiracy.

Will Return Captured Papers, But Will Keep Copies.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—While it was learned here today additional indictments against German sympathizers in America will be asked as the result of the revelations of Horst Von Der Goltz, German spy, word from New York indicated the statements made in his confession is far from comprising all the evidence in the hands of the federal authorities.

It was stated Von Der Goltz's statement has opened up a field practically without limit, and the government officers will follow every clue to the end. It is understood the number of men implicated in pro-German plots is much larger than had been supposed.

The departments of state and justice announced today the government is willing to return to the German embassy all papers seized in the raid on the former New York office of Capt. Von Papen, in which Wolff Von Igel was arrested. The condition on which the papers will be returned is their identification by Ambassador Von Bernstorff as official papers of the embassy. It is believed, because of the fact some of the documents deal with plots against the neutrality of this country, it will be embarrassing to the ambassador to claim them as official property.

In any case, it is stated, the government will retain photographic copies of all the papers, despite the protests of Count Von Bernstorff. Secretary Lansing, it is understood, is considering the propriety of sending a note of apology to the German ambassador for the seizure of the papers.

Two of the men named in the statement of Von Der Goltz as plotters, disclaimed any connection, according to dispatches received here today.

Hans E. Grunow, German Consul at St. Paul, was emphatic in his denial. "I never knew of a man named Von Der Goltz," he said; "I do not know anything about the matter. I never heard of the plans until now. The charges that implicate me are nonsense."

George Schudmacher, a German chemist living near Roseburg, Ore., made light of the idea of his having any connection with a conspiracy.

BOND ISSUE LOGIC.

15. Bonds Are Investments.

More than a quarter of a century ago the city of Lima issued bonds in the sum of one hundred thousand dollars. The issue was one of long period duration and they were known as "shop bonds." With them the city paid bonuses that gave to this community the terminal shops of the Lake Erie & Western and C. H. & D. railways. Those bonds were placed on the tax duplicate. Were they a good investment or did they work a hardship on the tax payers of the city?

Since the year of that bond issue these two railroad companies have paid more money in taxes to the city on the shops properties than the interest on the bonds will ever aggregate in addition to the taxes returned these shops have furnished employment for hundreds of men to it would be impossible to compute the amount of wealth they brought to the city. Think of the homes that have been built and other properties improved as a result of the bringing of those shops to the north and south sides of Lima! Think of the thousands upon thousands of dollars in wages that have been disbursed among employees of these shops and then put into circulation in Lima since those bonds were voted for! Then think also of the valuation that have been added to the tax duplicate as a result of those bonds.

If the bond issues now proposed are approved by the citizens of Lima at next Tuesday's election there will be one million, two hundred and thirty-nine thousand dollars spent by the city and property owners in Lima for labor and materials during the next two years. Then think again of the valuations that will be added to the tax duplicate by the proposed improvements and figure whether or not these increased valuations will not wipe out all of the expense the bonds could possibly bring to the tax payer.

HANDSOME ROBBER OF TRAIN ESCAPES

Believed to be Bandit Who Pulled Off Two Previous Exploits.

RAWLINGS, Wyo., April 22.—A sheriff's posse of two dozen mounted men on fast horses early today resumed the chase begun last night for the bandit who held up nearly 50 passengers on Union Pacific Limited train, west of Hanna, Wyo.

The robber is believed to be the man who on April 6, last, held up the Union Pacific Overland Limited near Corlett Junction, Wyoming, and on February 9 performed a similar exploit near Green River, Wyoming, and in March robbed a passenger train on the Oregon Short Line near Roy, Utah.

The bandit, described as a tall, handsome youth, boarded the train at Greeley, Colo., after a conversation with the train's stenographer, he sat down with the train guard. In the course of an hour the man drew two revolvers and compelled the guard to pass his hat before the passengers, who stood with hands in the air. About $200 was gathered in the observation car.

At the entrance to the second sleeping car, a brakeman and James Sherlock, conductor, faced the robber. Sherlock hesitated a moment about raising his hands, and the robber fired, his shot going wild. In the sleeper, $200 was dropped into the hat.

When the collection was finished the robber handed the guard a watch saying, "there's the watch I got on my last holdup, and which I planned to return next time."

"If you will slow down the train I'll get off here, otherwise I'll go with Rawlings with you," said the robber, as the train slackened speed for the Edson tunnel. The man dropped to the ground and ran in the direction of the "robbers' roost" country in the Elk mountain region.

The bandit who robbed the Union Pacific Overland Limited at Corlett Junction, promised the porter who collected for him on that occasion, that he would return the watch on his next exploit.

KIDNAPING CHARGED.

CLEVELAND, O., April 22.—Mrs. Anna Francis, 38, was held for arraignment in police court today on a charge of child stealing in connection with the disappearance last Wednesday of three-year-old John Zolkowski. The boy, it is said, was picked up in front of his home and was carried away by a woman, who put an apron over his head. The boy's father claims he later traced him to the woman's house. Police say no motive for the alleged kidnapping could be found.

ANSWER OF GERMANS TO BE DELAYED

KAISER, CHANCELLOR
AND ARMY CHIEF IN CONFERENCE.

BERLIN IS PESSIMISTIC

BERNSTORF URGES HIS GOVERNMENT TO RECEDE.

BERLIN, April 22.—via London—

Germany's answer to the latest American note is likely to be delayed by some parleys and requests for further information on certain points, according to the Lokal Anzeiger which says it learns that the note is a decidedly long one and that it will be examined with German thoroughness. The American note is now in the hands of Emperor William, Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg and General Von Falkenhayn, chief of the general staff at general headquarters.

A summary of the note was telegraphed yesterday to General Headquarters, and a courier, bearing the full text and the appendix, was sent there by train.

The deliberations of the emperor, the chancellor and the chief of staff will determine the future shaping of German-American relations.

The note appears in the newspapers of this afternoon. All is calm here.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—With official word that the American note had been presented to the Berlin foreign office, administration officials today momentarily expected definite advice from Ambassador Gerard as to how the communication was received together with information as to the nature of the German reply.

In reporting the delivery of the note late Thursday afternoon, Ambassador Gerard advised the state department that he had afterwards conferred briefly with Foreign Minister Von Jagow. The contents of another message from the ambassador was closely guarded, although it is said that he informed the department that assurances had been given him of immediate consideration of the document. Some officials indicated that they look for a reply from Germany by the middle of next week.

Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, who is away on a brief trip is not expected to return until Monday unless important dispatches regarding the submarine issue are received at the embassy before that time. It is known that he advised his government to modify submarine warfare to meet America's latest demands.

It became known that several messages have been received from Ambassador Gerard during the last day or so. It was stated authoritatively, however, that they transmitted only expressions of editorial opinion from German newspapers. These editorial excerpts were closely examined by officials in an attempt to gain an understanding of the state of German public opinion.

Dispatches from the Ambassador are looked for momentarily to give definite information regarding the views of German officials, the manner in which the note was received and forecasts of action which had been taken by the German government in response to the demand of the United States that it declare and affect an abandonment of the present methods of conducting submarine warfare.

Count Von Bernstorff, German Ambassador, was not in Washington today. He left early this morning on a week-end trip. He is not expected to return to the capital until Monday, unless dispatches of an important nature bearing on the submarine issue should be received before then.

LITTLE HOPE AT BERLIN.

Sentiment Prevails That Germany Will Not Accede to U. S. Demand.

BERLIN, (via London) April 22.—Despite the fact that the German government desires to maintain friendly relations with the United States, officials here express little hope that any answer to President Wilson's latest note can go to the length demanded by the American government.

Neither the note nor any reference to it has been published in Germany, and there is no intimation as yet when the note will be made public. The celebrations of Holy Week and of the Easteride, therefore, are proceeding undisturbed by any knowledge of foreign complications. The ministers and other officials who are entitled to it have received a copy of the note and are engaged in studying the document.

As far as American correspondents have been made acquainted with the sentiment in higher quarters, it would be wrong to regard the situation as anything but extremely grave.

The note probably will be answered some time next week after serious consideration has been given the American contention.

The sentiment is against any further weakening of Germany's submarine campaign, to say nothing of an abandonment of it.

U. S. FORCES HALT; WAIT FOR ORDERS

stantially true by Mexican officials here.

The constant moving of Carranza troops, no detachment being allowed to stay more than a few weeks in one place at a time, is believed to have a close relation to the activities of Diaz and his followers.

Federal and local officers are satisfied that attempts are being made on a fairly large and apparently organized scale to tamper with the loyalty of the Carranza commanders, but so far there has been no indication that such attempts have succeeded in any instances.

COLUMBUS, N. M., April 22.—The new concentration of troops at Columbus rapidly was being pushed forward today. Of the 2,300 men ordered here from other border points to be held subject to the orders of General J. J. Pershing, expeditionary commander, the 17th infantry commander by Major Robert Alexander, had arrived today from Eagle Pass, Texas, as had the first battalion of the 24th infantry under Major Newman, which until recently has been stationed at Del Rio, Texas. The 6th cavalry, commanded by Colonel Joseph A. Gaston, is expected here from Harlingen and other Texas stations tomorrow or Monday. The troops will be held here at least until General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff, makes a report to the secretary of war on his conferences with General Frederick Funston.

Supplies are being rushed to the front that General Pershing may complete the re-outfitting of his command during the lull in the Mexican operations.

Every effort apparently was being made to prepare the troops for any development which may result from the San Antonio conference.

GARMENT FACTORY COMING TO LIMA

Chamber of Commerce Secures Valuable Industrial Concern.

Through the influence of the Chamber of Commerce, another factory will be located in Lima. The new concern is to be known as the Lima Buttonless Garment company, manufacturers of little girls' dresses, middies and buttonless night robes. The decision of the head of the company to locate here was made only after they had looked into inducements offered by other cities of larger size.

President W. H. Bridges, head of the firm, who resides in Cleveland, has been in the city making final arrangements for the permanent location of the factory here. It is expected that within the next couple of months some of the 40 machines that will be used in making the garments will be installed in the second floor of the Morris Arcade building, which has been leased for a period of five years.

The company has been incorporated under the laws of the state of Ohio. The plant will open with about 50 employees. However, members of the company state that when running in good order the force will be materially increased. J. E. Morris, prominent clothier of this city, was instrumental in inducing the company to look into the proposition of locating in this city.

"After investigating condition and shipping facilities in some of the largest cities of the state, I found that Lima appeared to afford the most opportunity for the location of the factory," said the head of the concern, yesterday. "It is one of the best railroad centers in the state, especially from the Interurban stand point."

INFANT DIES.

The four-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Robinson of 907 Fairview avenue, died this afternoon. The child had been indisposed but a short time. No funeral arrangements have been made.

CITY AUDITOR MISSING.

FINDLAY, O., April 22.—Frank B. Thomas, of Springfield, state examiner, arrived in Findlay this afternoon to investigate the books of City Auditor Richard O. Mungen, who has been absent from his office two weeks. Mungen was record keeper of the Macabee lodge and his successor was elected last night by the order. A lodge inspector is here.

PROPERTY OWNERS OBJECT TO CLOSING STREET FOR D. T. & I.

Company Asks Concessions Which Delays East Market Subway Project.

Director Metheany Ordered to Repair North Street Bridge at Once.

Postponements and explanations characterized the adjourned session of the city council last evening, and with objections from taxpayers, on several proposals there appeared to be plenty of reasons for delay and explaining.

The compromise which was to have been effected between the D. T. and I. railroad company and the city with regard to the building of a subway under the tracks of East Market street was the first measure to reach the table. The company was represented by General Manager J. H. Fraser, who asked the city to vacate an unnamed street just east of the station and half a block in length. Discussion divulged the fact that the street has a name, Mayo street. On behalf of six property owners with real estate along the street, Kline S. Spellacy protested against the closing on the ground that property owners had deeded the land to the city years ago. Residents of East Market, moreover, failed to approve the log rolling program of linking the railroad's proposed freight house with the subway but urged immediate action. Back to the committee went both subway and freight house measures.

Steps to compel the Erie railroad to improve the station were reported by Solicitor Light, who had conferred with the Public Utilities Commission at Columbus. Last summer the council ordered the legal department to request the state board to push action against the Pennsylvania and Erie lines, but since that time the former line has complied. Service Director Metheany was ordered to proceed with the repair of the North street bridge. The cost, $2,500, is to come from the street fund of twice that amount.

On behalf of the Driving Park Association, Attorney James W. Halfhill protested against the ordinance annexing the park and adjacent territory to the city. President Perot Dempster, presiding in the absence of President Charles F. Price, explained that the measure had been drawn as the result of a misunderstanding or a scheme to swing a real estate deal and that it was slipped into the clerk's papers surreptitiously. Sentiment among the members showed that the annexation plan would not be taken seriously.

TAKEN WITH CROUP.

"A few nights ago one of my patrons had a child taken with croup," writes M. T. Davis, merchant, Bearsville, W. Va. "About midnight he came to my store and bought a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Before morning the child was entirely recovered." Many such letters have been written. H. F. Vorkamp, tu-thu-sat.

EASTER DINNER

A SPECIAL EASTER SUNDAY DINNER AT 75c WILL BE SERVED AT LIMA HOUSE FROM 6 TO 8 O'CLOCK.

TRAIN DOGS FOR USE IN AMERICAN ARMY

NEW YORK, April 22.—Organization of a movement to breed and train dogs for the use of the United States Army, the American Red Cross society or other military or relief organizations was announced today.

For that purpose dog fanciers have formed the Army and Police Dog Club of the United States. Dogs will also be trained for police work. Promoters say the movement has the approval of the war department. One kennel for this purpose is to be located at Scranton, Pa., and a branch of the club has been formed at Pasadena, Calif. The movement is backed by a group of wealthy dog fanciers. Their interest was aroused by reports of the efficient use of dogs on sentry duty and in the discovery of wounded men of the European armies.

QUARRIES OPENED.

SANDUSKY, April 22.—Two hundred men will begin work Monday morning at the Johnson Island quarries of the Coast and Lake Contracting company, it was announced today. Three trucks to handle scow materials have been put into commission.

CLEARING HOUSES.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The statement of the actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they held $99,908,620 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is a decrease of $2,836,070 from last week.

Hospital Caring for American Wounded in Mexico.

This is the field hospital established by General Pershing where sick or wounded American soldiers on the hunt for Villa are cared for.

The photograph was taken near Casas Grandes and has just been sent by the army censor.

The American soldiers who were incapacitated in Colonel Dodd's dashing fight with Villa a week ago will be cared for in this field hospital.

HELD FOR STEALING PIPE.

Fern and Dan Vorhees, brothers, were arrested this morning on a charge of stealing 400 feet of pipe from Henry Enck, local contractor. When they attempted to dispose of the wagon load of stolen property at one of the local junk dealers, the proprietor of the latter place immediately informed the police and the two men were taken into custody, and locked up in the city prison. The two men will be given a hearing in one of the justice of the peace courts.

WEST HIGH REALTY BRINGS GOOD PRICE

Holdridge Corner Sells For $30,000 as an Investment Proposition.

The McKenzie Brothers Realty company closed one of the biggest real estate deals of the Spring today, when they purchased the Hiram A. Holdridge property at the corner of High and West streets. According to members of the firm the property was taken over as an investment. The consideration is given as $30,000.

The price which this place of property brought is evidence of ever increasing value of real estate in the city. This is especially true of property that is located near the business district. A short time ago several pieces of property on Market street just out of the business section of the city sold for the same figure.

MART ARMSTRONG POST, NO. 202

SOME FUN IN PICTURES.

"Actors are always being surprised," runs a humorous caption in the picture section of EVERY WEEK. There's John Mason, for instance, who has had more shocks and starts than any two normal actors. See what surprises him now and see six other actors in some of Broadway's latest plays. This week—EVERY WEEK.

JUDGMENT GRANTED.

Clyde D. Thayer was granted judgment in the sum of $344.25 against Clinton Winegardner and George F. Winegardner, and costs. Defendants were not present in court and judgment was by default.

FIND MISSING GIRL.

CINCINNATI, O., April 22.—A search of several days made for Nellie Dietz, 17 years old of Huntington, W. Va., ended today when detectives found her here. She told the police that she married Francis De Long in Newport, Ky., Tuesday night and that he went to Cleveland Friday night to seek a job. Mary Brown, of Huntington, W. Va., who was found with Mrs. De Long said she had come from Huntington with her. The police telegraphed to Huntington and received word that Mrs. Dietz will start at once for Cincinnati.

MARRIED AT FUNERAL.

MARION, O., April 22.—Beside the bier of his mother, Miss Katherine Titus of this city was married today to William E. Baumert, of Rowan, Neb., by the Rev. Jesse Swank. Mrs. Samuel N. Titus, the mother, had expressed a wish that the marriage ceremony be performed before her burial. She was buried today at Brush Ridge, Marion county.

often brings exigencies in which a delegate serves his party better by using cool judgment than by obeying the orders received at a primary with one-fourth of the voters participating. Strict interpretation of the law would bind a delegate to stick to the last to a discredited candidate who had early been made an insignificant factor in the convention.

Another factor which makes the Ohio law more of a joke than a useful arrangement is the fact that a second choice must be registered by the candidates for delegates and alternates, not only for the presidency but for the second place as well. Now as any student of history ought to know, three out of four vice presidential nominees are men of whom no thought had been taken before the convention. The choice of a presidential standard-bearer generally decides the selection of a running mate.

The vice presidential nominee must not come from the same section of the country as does his chief. He is picked from a doubtful and pivotal state, hence the prevalence of Hoosiers. His popularity at home is a great factor. He must be able to harmonize the rival factions, and is chosen from the wing which loses the presidential nomination. He must be big enough to serve as president in case of the death of the latter.

Now how the candidates for delegate and alternate can tell, three months before the presidential nominee is picked, just whom they wish to support for the vice presidency is beyond conjecture. And the presence of a demand for the second choice merely deepens the absurdity of the freak Ohio law. As for the second choice for the first place, the fact that the Ohio G. O. P. has named Paul Howland a former Cleveland congressman unknown outside of Cuyahoga county except among politicians, is proof that the clause will be treated only as a superfluous technical provision.

Governor Willis and his docile legislature passed the monstrosity May 27, 1915, and the Ada educator with the flowery conversation affixed his signature June 4. This is the first test, and the verdict of the public is hardly liable to be complimentary. The preliminary red tape has already lowered the respect of committeemen and other party leaders for statutes, for most of the regulations encountered in getting out candidates for state delegations have proved to be useless formalities. Long before the November elections Ohio voters will know that their present election laws, after excessive tinkering, are enough to draw profanity from a missionary.

Civil service employees of the state, no matter what their positions, will be debarred from active participation in the coming primaries and elections, according to the dictate of Governor Willis. Whether or not he fears the vote of his own subordinates is a matter of guess, but as he has his hands full with the candidacy of Ralph Tyler, colored, who seeks to crowd the governor from the "big four," it appears that Willis is not overlooking any bet.

The inconsistency lies in the fact that he is not disposed to remove Secretary George L. Stoughton of the Industrial Commission, who has been condemned by the state Civil Service Commission for using employees in political work. Whether or not the Willis circular will keep state servants from participating in county work is hard to determine, but it would seem that the reverse would be true. When a voter on the payroll fails to work for the governor the chances are that some excuse will be found whereby to pry him loose from the job. Experience, at least points that way.

State Chairman William L. Parmenter of the republican state committee was a Piqua visitor last night, attending a rally with Willis, Burton, Daugherty and Judge D. D. Woodmansee, a senatorial candidate, an speakers. Parmenter occupies a useful position this summer, more than in 1912, for his place at the head of the guiding party of the state which furnishes the keynote and one presidential nominee at the Chicago convention makes him more of a figure than most of the chairmen of the party organizations in other states.

The Halfhill-Parmenter battle for the membership on the committee from the Fourth district has ducked underground, for the time being at least. Since the meeting of the county central committee which failed to endorse either the former constitution framer for state chairman there has been nothing said on either side, possible because of the endorsement of Parmenter by the governor. The approach of the time for the launching of a county ticket here and there may also be a factor.

Four candidates for the appellate court are being mentioned throughout the Third Judicial district. Kent W. Hughes, James D. Johnston, of Celina, Benjamin Meek, of Bucyrus, and Harry Conn, of Van Wert are said to be in the fight. The first two are avowed candidates. Meek's candidacy is still to be formally announced and Conn is in the "mentioned" class.

Two judges are to be elected. Phil M. Crow, of Kenton, is after a second term, and the candidates named above are after the part of the bench formerly kept warm by ex-Congressman Timothy T. Ansberry, of Defiance. Tim resigned on account of his health last fall and formed a partnership with former Attorney General Wade H. Ellis, at Washington, D. C. Governor Willis appointed James E. Robinson, of Marysville to fill out the unexpired term.

The district is normally democratic by about 7,500. It is composed of the counties of Defiance, Paulding, Van Wert, Mercer, Henry, Putnam, Allen, Auglaize, Hancock, Hardin, Logan, Union, Seneca, Wyandot, Marion and Crawford counties.

OHIO PROGRESSIVES TO HOLD CONVENTION

Will Elect Delegates to National Meet to Boost Teddy.

COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—Progressives of Ohio will hold a convention probably in Columbus within the next three weeks to choose delegates to the party's national convention. It was said when the state central committee met here today. Whether the state assembly would designate district delegates, or leave the picking of these to district conventions, will be determined at the convention. Most committee members before the meeting today appeared to favor letting the state convention elect the entire Ohio delegation.

The four progressive leaders most commonly mentioned as prospective delegates-at-large are State Chairman Walter F. Brown, of Toledo, Arthur L. Garford, of Elyria, James R. Garfield, of Cleveland, and Sherman Eagle, of Gallipolis.

Members of the central committee reported they found sentiment in favor of the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt by the republicans growing throughout the state and country.

Progressives are barred from entering the primaries next Tuesday by not having cast 10 per cent of the total vote at the last general election.

NAMED AS GUARDIAN.

Mrs. Elizabeth G. Mitchell, of 540 West Market street, widow of the late Thornton W. Mitchell, was today appointed guardian of her two minor children, Mary Jane, 4 years old, and Thornton W., 1 year old, in probate court. She gave bond in the sum of $2,000. The estate is valued at about $25,000.

Serious Condition of Affairs Stares Citizens Squarely in the Face.

The following figure-facts regarding the water situation in Lima and emphasizing the necessity of the improvements now being sought by public spirited citizens, have been gleaned from the records of the city's water works department:

In the year 1913 the consumption of water was 1,294,989,669 gallons, while the production at Lima Lake was only $35,135,000. In December the city of Lima was facing a water famine and preparations to start the Lost Creek wells were being rushed, but during the last week in December it began to rain and the drought was broken and on the last day of 1913, the pumps at Lima Lake were started and run continuously through January, 1914, producing 386,000,000 gallons. For the year 1914 the production and consumption were as follows:

1914.	Consumption:	Production:
Jan. ...	103,913,225	386,000,000
Feb. ...	101,188,826
Mar. ...	112,522,723	299,000,000
Apr. ...	109,379,934	213,000,000
May ...	113,655,513	158,750,000
June ...	128,240,620	21,600,000
July ...	130,219,241	58,500,000
Aug. ...	123,222,821	20,400,000
Sept. ...	107,725,050	32,725,000
Oct. ...	76,821,216	32,730,000
Nov. ...	74,874,147	29,800,000
Dec. ...	79,160,263	45,100,000

1,277,725,877. 1,298,335,000. In the month of January, 1913, the records show, there was sufficient water in Ottawa river to work the pumps at Lima Lake to their full capacity for 16 days; in February, none; March, 3; April, 5; May, 6. During the balance of the year there were no days when there was sufficient water coming down the river to run the pumps to capacity. In 1914, the year of the famine, there were only four months in the year

When the pumps at Lima Lake are worked to capacity, water can be impounded at a cost of about $1 per million gallons. With the old equipment of the Lost Creek wells the cost in 1914 was about $70 per million gallons.

In 1914 the Solar Refinery started pumping into the city mains on the 27th of September, and pumped continuously until the 28th of January, 1915. In that time they furnished 169,200,000 gallons, for which they made no charge except for the actual cost of furnishing the steam to operate the pumps, which they figured at $2,266.60.

At the present time, with the reservoirs full to capacity, we can only operate the pumps long enough each day to keep the water at high stage, with millions of gallons of good water going down the stream each day, because we have no place in which to store it.

Final recital of "The Mable" club will be held Friday afternoon at the Faurot opera house. This recital will be "Musical Milestones" and will be a depiction of the music of different periods with charming, appropriate costumes.

The Philathes class of the Central Church of Christ will hold their meeting on Friday afternoon with Mrs. Barnes of 701 West High street.

MRS. ANNA BENROTH CLAIMED BY DEATH

Mrs. Anna Benroth, 65 years old, wife of George Benroth and mother of Miss Minnie Benroth of the county treasurer's office, died this morning at 7:15 o'clock at her home at 154 North Baxter street. She was born December 11, 1849, in Richland township, near Bluffton. For the past year the family has resided in Lima.

Three sons and five daughters, with the husband and wife, are Edward, Alfred and Julius, Mrs. M. Euller, Mrs. T. J. Buchanan and Miss Minnie Benroth of Lima; Miss Emma Benroth and Mrs. M. B. Sweeney of Beaumont, Texas.

Brief services will be held Tuesday at 12:30 o'clock at the residence and the funeral will be held from the German Reformed church in Bluffton in the afternoon, the body to be accompanied to that place after services here.

SAFETY TRAIN COMING.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—A safety train put out by government departments will leave Washington May 1 for a tour of the United States. It was announced today. Twelve steel cars will carry many of the exhibits shown in the recent government safety first exposition here.

The first stop will be at Philadelphia, and from there the train will go west.

LAYMEN PREACH IN AKRON.

AKRON, O., April 22.—Laymen will occupy the pulpit of the First Methodist church during May while the pastor, Rev. S. B. Salmon, is attending the general conference to which he goes as a delegate.

BOY SCOUTS CLEAN CITY.

CUYAHOGA FALLS—April 22.—The Boy Scouts here have decided to stage a clean-up campaign without waiting for civic committees of city councils. Yesterday they borrowed five wagons and during the afternoon cleaned up as many streets. The force of boys and vehicles was doubled today and they expect to have the city in pretty good shape by Sunday.

when there was water enough to run the pumps to capacity: January, 8 days; March, 3 days; April, 5 days; May, 6 days. The pumping that was done in the other months was what is known as "head pumping," in which a dam is built across the river and a man is placed on duty to watch and when the water rises to the top of the dam, the pumps are started and the head pumped off. The largest four days' production by this method of head pumping was one day in September, 4,250,000; another in October, 3,900,000; another in November, 2,800,000, and another in December, 3,800,000.

It will be remembered that this water, or most of it, was first pumped into the river from the various stone quarries above Lima Lake. In order to maintain a supply at all, it required constant "head pumping."

When the river is low and the water stagnant, it must be pumped to the last drop, and when the river is at flood tide, billions of gallons of water go down the stream, either because we have not the storage capacity or the pumps are lacking in capacity. No matter how much water is in the creek, 14,000,000 gallons is the maximum capacity of the pumps.

When the pumps at Lima Lake are worked to capacity, water can be impounded at a cost of about $1 per million gallons. With the old equipment of the Lost Creek wells the cost in 1914 was about $70 per million gallons.

In 1914 the Solar Refinery started pumping into the city mains on the 27th of September, and pumped continuously until the 28th of January, 1915. In that time they furnished 169,200,000 gallons, for which they made no charge except for the actual cost of furnishing the steam to operate the pumps, which they figured at $2,266.60.

At the present time, with the reservoirs full to capacity, we can only operate the pumps long enough each day to keep the water at high stage, with millions of gallons of good water going down the stream each day, because we have no place in which to store it.

MARITAL LAUNDRY GIVEN MORE WORK

Two new divorce cases were filed today, one late yesterday afternoon, and one wife was granted a divorce this morning, while the case of another couple was postponed for completion until Tuesday.

Eliza McClain, wife for a divorce from Jesse McClain, to whom she was married in Tuscola, Ill., November 16, 1907. They have one child, 7 years old, who lives with the wife at 368 South Jackson street, Lima. McClain abandoned his family in January, 1914, and the petition says his residence is now unknown. He also struck her and threatened to kill her, she says. She asks for the custody of the child.

James E. Howard filed suit for divorce from Clara E. Howard, to whom he was married on June 3, 1909, in Elida. They have no children.

On May 1, 1915, she left him, but previously that time had neglected her household duties, causing him to prepare his own meals and care for their home, he says.

From February 1, 1915, she was employed at the Delphos Hotel, Delphos, working there against his wishes, while he maintained the home. While she did live with him, he says, she tried to injure him with a knife. Later she used an iron poker on him, he alleges.

Mrs. Theora Cumberland filed suit for divorce yesterday afternoon from Paul O. Cumberland, of 333 South Central avenue. The couple were married on January 28, 1909, and have no children. For three years he has been absent, being at the present time confined in the Ohio State penitentiary.

Mrs. Ollie M. Harris was granted a divorce from Aaron Harris, who did not appear in court. Willful absence for three years, was the ground upon which the decree was granted. She was restored to her maiden name of Ollie Hunt.

MRS. GERSTENLAUER DIES; FUNERAL IS TOMORROW

Funeral services for Mrs. Isabella Gerstenlauer, 56 years of age, will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the residence at 324 North Pine street. The Rev. A. K. Borger, pastor of Zion's Evangelical Lutheran church, will officiate. Interment will be near Upper Sandusky. The body will be accompanied at 8:20 o'clock, Monday morning.

Mrs. Gerstenlauer died at her home last night, after an illness of two years from heart trouble. She was born in Pennsylvania on June 11, 1859. The husband, Jacob H. Gerstenlauer, two sisters and three brothers are left.

BANK GETS JUDG. ENT.

The Metropolitan bank of Lima was granted judgment today against Elizabeth Davis, Archie Hughes, guardian of Elizabeth Davis, Richard J. Davis, William R. Davis, Mary E. Hughes and Archie Hughes, in the sum of $1,252.38, due on a promissory note. In case the amount is not paid in three days, the real estate used to secure the note, will be appraised and sold by the sheriff.

EUROPE'S FUTURE POPULATION MAY BE DWARF RACE

War Always Reduces Size of Individuals Science Claims.

Some Experts Claim Present Struggle Will Benefit the World.

By Frederic J. Haskins.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 22.—

The countries of Europe now at war may in future years be populated by a veritable race of dwarfs, if the war continues much longer, according to the speculations of some scientists. Interest is now turning largely away from the war itself and toward its ultimate effects, social and industrial. One of the most interesting questions presented is what changes the war will cause in the races of Europe; and this is of immediate importance to the American people, for by immigration we will share whatever heritage the war leaves to the European nations.

Speculation as to the future size of Europeans is based largely upon the well known fact that the Napoleonic wars reduced the average size of the French people. This is an opinion commonly held in France itself, and is adequately established by the records of the army. Napoleon had repeatedly to lower the standard of height which he had set for his soldiers. Further more the measurements of the young men who annually offered themselves for compulsory service shows that during the 20-year period of the war the number of those rejected for insufficient size greatly increased.

A loss of size in itself is not important, but it pretty certainly implies a loss of other valuable physical qualities. Thus during the period of the great French wars, the number of conscripts who had to be rejected because of infirmities increased one-third.

Now the scientists who argue that the present war is to result in a physically degenerate European race point out that the present war is much worse than any preceding one. It is destroying men in unprecedented numbers. The total losses of Europe in killed, wounded and missing have been estimated as high as 10 million men. Furthermore, the number of men who have been taken from the battlefields as nervous wrecks or insane is tremendous. The maddening monotony of trench warfare, the terrific shock of heavy artillery, the use of poison gases, all combine to render the war more destructive to human tissue than any that has ever waged before.

This side of the picture has of course been greatly emphasized in this country, while the other has been almost overlooked. There are a number of scientists who contend that war is beneficial, and necessary. One of the most convincing of these is Dr. Otto Ammon of Jena, who points out that the conflict between nations is the most majestic form of the struggle for existence, and is really a working out of the laws of nature selection.

The pacifists deny this categorically, asserting that the process of natural selection is reversed. Thus in the battles of wild animals in a wilderness, the weakest are always killed, the strong survive, and the breed is improved. In war, however, the strongest and fittest are forced to go to the front and be killed or maimed, while the unfit are carefully protected at home. The recruiting office says to the weakling citizen "You are not good enough to be a soldier; go home and be a father."

So those who assert that war injures the race seem to have the best of it if the question is viewed from a biological standpoint. The militarist philosophers claim that the proportion destroyed is not really large enough to have a great effect, and that the damage is in part compensated by an increased birth rate after war. They cannot, however, disprove the terrible loss of race-strength both by death and injury in a war like the present one.

They assert, however, that the greatest benefits of war are spiritual. During the war, they say the heroism and unselfishness of a people are stimulated. Persons who have devoted all their lives to gathering riches often freely give these to the cause. The men of the race learn how to face death, the women how to face sacrifice. In peace, heroism is possible only for a few—such as explorers and adventurers. In war, heroism becomes the common experience of the race. Nations often produce their greatest men after wars. The Germans, Goethe, Schiller and Kant came after the devastating Thirty Years War. Poland produced a wonderful crop of geniuses while she was being overrun by the armies of Europe and torn to pieces by them. The great American psychologist, William James, believed in this stimulating effect of war, and in his volume "The Will to Believe," he gives an impressive list of nations and peoples that have done great things in the face of threatened or partial destruction. It is a striking fact that religious acts which have been persecuted and headed about the earth nearly always are people of unusual qualities. The Huguenots, the Puritans and the Waldenses, are well known examples.

This quickening of the spiritual life of a nation by war may be traced to some extent through history. In a short war, asserts the militarists, a nation works off the fat and sloth accumulated by years of undisturbed industry; its spiritual qualities are awakened; and its nationalism intensified. The pacifists reply to this is that war has brutalizing as well as stimulating effects, and that above all, its rewards cannot possibly be worth the terrific price being paid in the present struggle.

There are many kinds of loss to the nations engaged besides those actually killed on the field of battle. The seriousness of this latter is probably exaggerated in the mind of the average American, as it has been in the utterances of a host of amateur and professional pacifists. Thus the losses of Germany have been placed as high as three million. This is an extreme estimate in the first place. In the second place it includes wounded and prisoners. The wounded include many who are only slightly injured, and a comparatively small proportion who are injured for life. Many of the prisoners, of course, are not injured at all. Some military experts say that the actual loss of life to Germany is so far less than a million men. This is probably not more than 6 or 7 per cent of the men of the nation. If more than 90 per cent remain to perpetrate the race, it cannot suffer so immensely from this cause alone.

But it must also be taken into account that the race is meantime being propagated largely by the adolescent, the aged, and the unfit who were left behind. These are enjoying the opportunities of marriage and family life while the strongest men are in the trenches. Then, too, many who come back from the war will be victims of what the scientists call traumatic neurosis—that is, the effect on the nervous system of the terrific shock of the modern machinery of battle. Several scientists of high standing have expressed the belief that this nervous shock will be apparent for many generations.

These are of course unknown factors in the situation, and it remains to be seen what effect they will have on the future of the European race.

Another difficult question to be faced after the war by all of the combatant nations will be a superfluity of women. Always a little more numerous than the men, they will soon be many millions in excess. One Oriental philosopher has suggested legalized polygamy as the solution of the difficulty. This of course is out of the question in Christian nations; but some scientists admit that it might be better than the unregulated polygamy which is sure in some degree to result. Thus it is believed by some observers that a large number of women unprotected by marriage will be one of Europe's great problems.

Others, however, see a bright side to the picture. Arnold Bennett, the English novelist, believes that because of the keen competition for men, only the very finest women will achieve marriage. Thus the best of the race will be perpetuated, and the bad effect of a shortage of fit men will be somewhat ameliorated by a superfluity of fit women.

One gain for women already very noticeable is that they are taking part in many occupations hitherto monopolized by men. The opportunity to work, which is the fundamental need of modern woman, and the lack of which is the basis of all her restlessness, has undoubtedly been broadened by war.

A canvass of all of the opinions of the learned leaves the conviction that the war will leave the Europeans a people in many senses impaired, and will doubtless send to America a share of maimed and unfit but also that it undoubtedly has spiritual and moral values; and that these too, will—in fact, already have been—felt across the Atlantic.

"Ruling Spirit Strong."
"I was up in Maine one winter on a hunting trip, with a fellow who was crazy to quit smoking, but who couldn't," writes Tom Q. "He had tried time and again to break away, but the vice had him in a strangle hold. One morning as he was fixing to go out for the day I slipped all the matches out of his pockets, then gave him a big cigar and got him to light it—I knew it would last him for an hour, and by that time he wouldn't be so far from camp that he wouldn't turn back for matches. That afternoon he returned with three fingers frozen, and half dead—for a smoke. He froze his fingers trying to start a fire with a piece of ice, using it as a burning glass."

What Is Fame?
Dr. E. M. Payton of Kansas City, studying pellagra in collaboration with the Institute of Experimental Hygiene of the University of Rome, was in New York and dropped into a Broadway vaudeville house to pass away an hour or so. As he approached the box office a long, lanky gentleman ahead of him said: "What's going on here tonight?" "Lottie Carter is here in pictures," was the reply. "Success," said the stranger. "I've seen him."

On the "Suffrage Special" to Win the Nation

From Left to Right:—Mrs. Florence B. Hilles, Wilmington, Del.; Mrs. Agnes Morey, Brookline, Mass.; Miss Lucy Burns, National Vice-Chairman of the Union and Commander-in-Chief of the Expedition; Miss Anna Constance and Mrs. John Rogers, New York; Mrs. Percy Read, Highland Springs, Va.; Miss Caroline Katzman and Miss Ella Reigel, Philadelphia; Miss Edith Goode, Washington; Mrs. W. D. A. Cough, Hartford, Conn.; Mr. Robert Baker, Washington; Miss Katherine Morey, Brookline; Miss Agnes Campbell, Short Hills, N. J.; Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, New York; Miss Julia Huribut, N. J., and Mrs. Gertrude B. Newell, Boston.

Here are the members of the tour known as the "Suffrage Special" as they looked just before they left Washington for a tour of the country to try to weld the Congressional union into a political party. The union is the suffrage faction opposed to the American National Woman Suffrage association. The photograph was taken in front of the Washington headquarters.

VESSEL AFTER VESSEL CARRYING AMERICANS DESTROYED BY GERMANS

Eyes of the World and All Neutrals Turned Upon U. S. and President Wilson Walked Silent, Unfrequented Streets at Night, Alone.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Complications between the United States and Germany began piling up from the moment the submarine war zone was declared around the British Isles. With all Europe afire in war, the eyes of the world were turned upon the United States in expectancy of developments that would threaten to draw the greatest neutral into the conflict. They were not long in coming.

With the torpedoing of the British liner Falaba, the first American life was lost; then in quick succession came the attacks on the Gulf and the Cushing, American ships. The sinking of the American sailing ship William P. Frye raised another issue, but it involved different questions and while it complicated the situation did not assume the threatening features of the cases where Americans traveling on passenger ships and having no part or interest in the conduct of the war were sent to their deaths without warning.

Know of Lusitania in Advance.
Then came the sinking of the Lusitania—almost a year ago—in which 115 Americans, many of them women and children, were lost in a submarine attack which subsequent events proved was known in advance to the German embassy in this country, and which was guardedly advertised in the daily papers in the form of a warning to Americans to keep off belligerent ships traversing the war zone.

It seemed then as if the breaking point had come and all eyes were turned on President Wilson. That night the president, after shutting himself in his study, slipped out of the White House, eluded the secret service guard, walked for blocks around silent, unfrequented streets of the capital in the attitude of a man confronted with making a great decision. The first note to Germany pledging the United States to hold her to strict accountability followed soon afterward.

Then Bryan's Resignation.
Then another national sensation due solely to the Lusitania negotiations, followed. Secretary Bryan resigned because he could not agree with the president's policy, which he believed would lead to war.

While the Lusitania negotiations were proceeding the Arabic was sunk with the death of more Americans, and it seemed then the breaking point could not be averted. The German government then gave its assurances not to torpedo more "liners," and Count von Bernstorff informed Secretary Lansing that the German emperor's orders to the submarine commanders were of such a nature as to admit of no misunderstanding. Indemnity for American lives lost on the Lusitania was offered, and while long negotiations over the form in which Germany should admit the illegality of her act were in progress Austria was brought into the situation, first by the destruction of the Ancona and later by the destruction of the Persia although in the latter case responsibility definitely never was fixed.

Satisfaction from Austria.
Austria finally gave satisfaction in the Ancona case, and while the Lusitania negotiations seemed to be nearing a final settlement, Germany announced her new submarine campaign, which began on March 1, with the avowed purpose of sinking without warning any merchant ships of her enemies which carried armament.

This raised a new feature to the issue which never has been settled and since the new campaign began scores of peaceful merchant ships many of them carrying Americans have been destroyed. The climax came with the destruction of the unarmed channel steamer Sussex and the endangering of about fifty Amer-

His Gratitude.

There is a certain little fellow into whose heart his mother has been for some time striving to instill the sentiment of generosity, which, to her regret, did not appear to be naturally present. The son of a poor family in the neighborhood she had particularly commended to her boy's consideration. The other day he came in with a beamy face. "You know Tom, that poor boy?" he said eagerly. "Well, I gave him half that box of candy you gave me!" "You are mamma's sweet little man!" the fond mother approved. "Was he grateful?" "Oh, he precatized it, all right," the little fellow assured her. "He let me lick him when two other kids could see, and tomorrow he's goin' to come round by the school and let me lick him right in front of everybody for the other half of the box!"—New York Times.

World's Most Southerly Town.
Ushuaia is the most southerly town in the world; it lies in latitude 55 south, and is only 70 miles from Cape Horn. As the capital of that part of Terra del Fuego which belongs to the Argentine republic, it prides itself on being the residence of the governor, and on possessing a wireless station, a fishing and canning company, several stores, a church and one hotel. It is also the penal settlement of Argentina; in the large building at the back of the town there are over one thousand men imprisoned for terms varying from five years to a lifetime. Mount Olivia, which is 4,600 feet high, and the highest mountain in the island, overlooks the town; it is never entirely free of snow. For eight months in the year a hard sheet of ice covers the ground, on which the only vehicles to be seen are sleighs.

Couldn't Tell.
The following is being told by a lawyer who employs a young lady as a typist and secretary and recently handed her a batch of letters to answer for him. Among these was one asking if he could inform the writer of the state of health of Mrs. H—, and also her present address. The lady secretary replied as follows: "Dear Madam: In reply to your letter of yesterday's date, I am unable to give you Mrs. H—'s address, as requested. She died on the 17th and was buried on the 22d inst."

THE FRENCH TWINS OF A HUNDRED TRUNKS.

The Misses Alice and Madeline Liebert, twin daughters of the new French consul general to the United States, have lost some of their hundred trunks, and hotels of New York are being scoured for them. They came with that number, but with them.

ANTI CANINE WAR IS DECLARED BY POLICE

Tagless Dogs Are to be Shot on Sight is Order.

If your poor old hound or pedigree, medal-winning dog is not supplied with a tag within the next couple of days, he will be shot down on sight in cold blood according to Police Chief McKinney. Dogs, whose owners fail to comply with the city ordinance will be sent to their happy hunting ground in wholesale numbers.

The direct cause of this action is because of the large number of complaints that have been registered at headquarters by persons that have been attacked by untamed dogs. Persons that spend money for tags usually keep their dogs at home, making it easy for members of the police department to weed out the tramp dogs.

If it were the time of the year that is commonly referred to as "dog-days," it is likely that a goodly number of persons in Lima would be considering going to the Pasteur institution for treatment, as never before in the history of the police department have as many complaints been registered by persons that have been attacked by dogs. It is believed that if the "tramp" dogs are killed off now, it will relieve the situation during the latter part of the summer, when such bites are extremely dangerous.

Introduction of Tobacco into England.

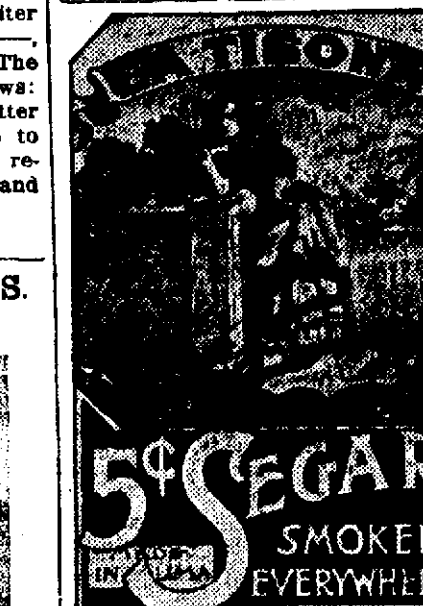

After all, the popular glorification of Raleigh as the first English smoker will probably endure as long and as strongly as any or all of these discussions, and it has never been better expressed than in the words of the schoolboy (or was it the professional "howler" maker?) who tells us that: "Sir Walter Raleigh introduced tobacco into England, and when smoking it, 'Master Ridley, we are today lighting a candle in England which by God's blessing will never be put out.'"

CHOICE FAMILY FLOUR

It is economy to use it. While it does not make as white or light a loaf as our other flours, it is just as nutritious and has an excellent flavor. Also good for baking pies and cakes.

Tonoline Is Beauty Aid, Announces Specialist

Mildred Louise Talk of Interest to Women.

As health is a first aid to beauty this story, told by Mildred Louise, beauty specialist of Boston, Mass., is of unusual interest. "I can recommend no better health giver than tonoline," said Mildred Louise.

"I was for many months a victim of stomach trouble and nervousness. I had suffered terribly from pains that followed eating. Headaches also would add to my worries. Poor digestion finally brought on nervousness."

"Relief came, however, when I took the advice of several women, who said, 'Take tonoline.'"

"Not long after I started the tonoline treatment, my patrons began to remind me of the improvement in my condition. And because health is the quickest way to beauty, the improvement was particularly noticeable in my face."

"What tonoline really did for me I cannot say. I am so grateful that I am very willing to recommend tonoline publicly."

Tonoline is a purely vegetable preparation which goes to the seat of common maladies—stomach and kidney trouble, catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes, liver ailments and impurities of the blood—and quickly restores proper action. Tonoline is being explained daily to many people at Butler's Drug Store, and Thompson's Drug Store.

Notice:—An attempt is being made to sell a wonderful fish builder. It should not be taken by any one not wishing to increase his weight ten pounds or more. Although many reports are received from those who have been benefited by tonoline in severe cases of stomach trouble and nervous dyspepsia, chronic constipation, etc.—50c BOX FREE—

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally If You Eat Meat Regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

THE DUTY OF LIMA VOTERS

It is a common axiom in governmental circles, no matter whether of nation or township, that elections draw out a full representation of the electorate only when great issues are involved. The "stay-at-home" vote is as much a deciding factor in an election as that which appears at the polls to perform the patriotic obligation of registering opinion. More than once the failure of the entire male population to participate in an election has elected a governor or even a president, and statistics show that this practice is on the increase.

In Switzerland the man who fails to vote at three elections in as many years is disfranchised for half a decade. There is no such clause in the constitution of the United States, that stately old document which has given greater freedom to more people for a longer time, scattered over a larger area than any other instrument of government which the world has seen. Hence there is in this country a large class which because of indifference, laziness or lack of patriotism is prone to take advantage of the leniency of the constitution by failing to vote when the opportunity—for which our ancestors fought so long—presents itself.

The "stay-at-home" voter is just as much a laggard and a near-traitor as the man who refuses to aid his country in time of war. It is just as important that an assumedly intelligent man do his part in naming the heads and policies of city, state and nation as that he shoulder a musket in time of strife.

Neglect of this duty is opposition to progress. The man who has the welfare of his home—city, state or nation—at heart, will not serve his interests well unless he takes part in the government of that home. The patriot helps introduce reform and honesty. It is the right, the privilege and the duty of every qualified voter to vote and the next chance will be Tuesday.

FORD AS A NOMINEE

Nebraska has followed the lead of Michigan in endorsing Henry Ford for the Republican presidential nomination. Placed on the ticket in both states as a joke, the Detroit automobile manufacturer has made remarkable progress without a campaign, without a manager and without a single paid worker.

In the Wolverine state Ford led by a large vote the tried and experienced William Alden Smith. In Nebraska he ran far ahead of both Senator Cummins and Justice Hughes. Analyzing the returns, only one conclusion is evident—the voters prefer the advertising of a manufacturer, leader of a commercial opera, to the candidate managed by professional politicians and state-makers.

The nomination of Ford at Chicago is too improbable to deserve more than passing consideration. He would not make trades and no promises of patronage could be wrung from him. The theory, not the man, is the feature. Any other aspirant running on the platform of shelving old time-worn candidates would receive a flattering vote.

Ford's unsought success may be interpreted as a direct slap at one Theodore Roosevelt of Oyster Bay, county of Nassau, state of New York. He stands forth as a sincere opponent of the military and jingoistic program advanced by the colonel. He is not lured by the sed of imperialism and centralization, and he detests the policy of aggressive searching for trouble. Roosevelt is the embodiment of the medieval, the undemocratic and the monarchical elements in the nation, about them.

and it is refreshing to see thousands of voters rebuking the would-be emperor by endorsing the futile candidacy of the one man who stands at the most extreme opposite of T. R. While the colonel still has Wall street, Perkins and Kansas, his program of paternalism can not be said to have been taken favorably on this side of the Appalachians. The vote in Michigan and Nebraska were not for Ford and his peace-at-any-price propaganda, but against the militaristic tendency of the sage of Sagamore Hill.

THE ANTI-WILSON CROWD

There are six classes of citizens who will oppose the attitude taken by President Wilson in his ultimatum to Germany. They are represented by Roosevelt, Mann, Gore, Hearst, Bartholdt and Bryan. All of them have been laboring under false impressions with regard to the facts and not a one has paid the least attention to international law, a subject with which every man must be familiar before he attempts to take issue with the brilliant Lansing.

Roosevelt and his adherents claim that the note was too long in coming. They would have refused to draw a promise from Jagow. Yet in accepting these pledges in good faith and refusing to object until they were broken, Wilson preserved his fair and neutral policy.

Mann and his coterie cry that we have a greater grievance against England. But what is a bale of cotton or a registered letter compared to a baby, floating on the waves and tossed about amid the wreckage of a torpedoed liner?

Gore and those who voted for his resolution denounce Americans for taking chances in standing on their acknowledged rights. Although Gore would be a fool to walk past the house of a man who had threatened to kill him on sight, does that justify the murder, once committed?

Hearst believed that we should forget the pledges broken by the Imperial Government because of the greater opportunities for blood-hed in Mexico. He ought to know—his friends paid Villa to murder Americans at Columbus. And two days ago his leading paper demanded the annexation of a strip of territory—just large enough to include his 1,100,000-acre ranch.

Bartholdt demands an embargo on arms. At The Hague in 1908 Germany signed the agreement that any neutral may sell arms to one side as long as she does not refuse to sell to the other. We have never refused Germany, but the British navy will not permit her to come here for shells and shrapnel. Bartholdt's complaint belongs to the German navy.

Bryan is the advocate of peace at any price. If he is willing to pay it he has the nation's permission. Belgium is paying it today.

Take all six reasons, and if there is enough logic in all of them to justify one objection to the Wilson policy, it is beyond us.

If Willis uses any of that clean gentlemanly lingo of his in naming Burton at Chicago the chances are that Burton will drop on the first ballot. Imagine the Ada educationists of vaunts! boasting Theodore as "the one dead game sport a heavy gun wot's wise to the game and a gent wot's wad wot'll peel off A's and X's while the scrapping." Right in line with the remark about lousy knights and unribbed Indians.

Workmen in great crowds turn out to factory meetings to hear about the local issues. The brains of Lima are not all in one part of the city by a whole lot.

GOOD EVENING When a man tells you he is opposed to the United States, he is not a man who has not the common sense to know that the

NEW NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

By DAISY DEAN

THE CAREER of Bruce McKee, a recent convert to the motion picture, reads like a story from a fairy book. He was born in England, but went to Australia at the age of 16, and there became a surveyor in the government service. He later came to America and while stationed at Fort Laramie had charge of one of the largest ranches in the world.

Perhaps the fact that he is a nephew of that sterling English actor, Sir Charles Wyndham, and of the famous dramatist, the late Bronson Howard, had something to do with his breaking into the theatrical game, for after a year in the wild and woolly he came to New York where, through introductions from his noted uncles, he was able to secure a part in Elsie De Wolf's and Forbes Robertson's company, which was then playing "Thermidor."

His success was immediate, and since then he has seldom been out of the public view, as the long list of plays in which he has appeared will attest.

"Shot" On Well for "The Tollers."

The actual shooting of a real oil well will be one of the big scenes in "The Tollers," the new Lubin multiple reel feature photoplay by Dr. Daniel Carson Goodman, in which Nance O'Neil is starred. The theme of "The Tollers" is described as love, oil and money in equal parts. Edgar Lewis, who is directing the making of the photoplay, is an extremist in the matter of realism, and to put the aroma of petroleum into the picture, he took Miss O'Neil and her supporting principals to the Galloway oil fields near Franklin, Pa., where 15 busy derrick were employed in unfolding the story of the camera amid slacks, derricks and tanks.

DUNEDIN.

Dunedin is one of the great cities of New Zealand, that commonwealth whose achievements make the favorite citation of the pro-suffragist and the political reformer. It is a way, Dunedin typifies New Zealand. She is not as beautiful as she might be, but she is very comfortable and efficient.

Dunedin is a sea-port, a long way from the sea. Built at the head of a long, narrow inlet, her site has much of grandeur with its forest-clad hills rising sharply from the waterside, but the combination is bad for street-building. Dunedin picked her location for the benefit of ships rather than automobiles.

There is a certain barrenness about the man-made rash in the virgin forest that tells the newness of the land. The trees have been turned into houses, and have not grown more beautiful in the change. Here and there on the long thoroughfare paralleling the harbor you see a really handsome building. It is probably a bank. Banks seem to thrive in Dunedin. The most attractive sec-

Vera Pearce is to be starred by the Metro company. She's a handsome girl who has posed frequently for Charles Dana Gibson, Fisher, Christy and the rest of them. She grew up in Middletown, N. tion is the one lying out in the suburbs; where people really live, whence they descend on Dunedin proper to make money, and whether they retire by motor or carriage or trolley, according to how much they have made, when that annoying but essential detail has been attended to. The outskirts of Dunedin are really beautiful—beginning at the Belt, a strip of forest which characterizes New Zealand municipal foresight has preserved in a park.

There are all the usual "places of interest" in Dunedin—a university, theatres, a museum, little shops that sell native curiosities; but two landmarks stick particularly in the memory of the departing traveler. Those two are the oysters and the Octagon. The oysters of Dunedin are masters of the gentle art of tickling the human palate, rivaling the accomplished bivalves of Nantucket and Lynnhaven. The Octagon is the main square, but it boasts twice as many sides as most squares. About it are many of the principal buildings, and within it, seated on a pedestal, is no less a personage than Robert Burns. His presence is a silent reminder of which Britons founded Dunedin. He

TOBACCO GIVES NO BENEFITS, SCIENCE SAYS

"Despite the almost universal indulgence and the praises that have been sung of the soothing effect of tobacco, science condemns it and offers an imposing array of experiments to prove the ill effects which follow its use," declares Dr. S. G. Nixon, Pennsylvania commissioner of health.

Tobacco is a drug containing powerful poisons. Its charm lies in its drug effects. If it has any beneficial effects they are not discoverable to the scientific investigator.

"On the other hand, there are certain decided results tending to harmful to the majority of men."

Physical deterioration, which are readily recognizable. It is a heart depressant, and experiments on animals have shown that it has a tendency to produce hardening of the arteries.

Some of the foremost authorities have made clinical observations, which indicate that the use of tobacco has similar effects on man.

As is generally the case in the use of drugs, there is a tendency to produce indulgence.

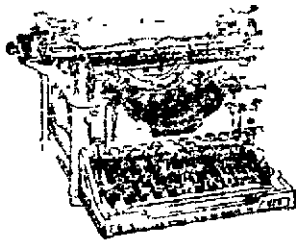

"Those who have had experience in athletics know the use of tobacco interferes with breathing by depressing the heart action. There are other affections common to smokers."

"In brief, the result of all scientific investigations seem to prove that the use of tobacco is distinctly harmful to the majority of men."

sis surveying the traffic of Princess Street, apparently taking notes on what is going forward. There is little doubt that a glance into his years' experience in selling these book would show only favorable comment, for the Scots of Dunedin have made them a city that Bobby Burns would have loved.

Easter Chimes Proclaim The Resurrection Morn

Churches of Lima Will Ring With Glad Songs of Everlasting Hope

"Once more the Easter morning brings

The buds of flowers to living things,
And happy birds set singing;
The lilacs burst to snowy bloom
And fill the air with sweet perfume,
While Easter bells are swinging.

Like the beautiful lily, so symbolic of the day it typifies, Easter morn: breaks upon us in all the radiance of its glory. For 40 days and nights, we have been taught of the significance and meaning of Lent and the trials under which the Savior of the world passed, in order to offer redemption to a sinful world. The week just passed has been very significant of this fact in Lima. There have been a few churches that have not brought their worshippers closer to these truths by week-day services. And all with the one object in view—to make better men and women and equip them more fully for the responsibilities of the coming year. Tomorrow spring comes at last. The drooping lily, the modest violet, the flowers taken from artificial heat and warmth, will yield up their fragrance tomorrow in all the city churches, praising, in their small way, the Redeemer of the World.

Easter puts the vernal touch of spring on every living thing and worshippers in the churches, in accordance with the dictates of fashion, will vie with the spring flowers in their beauty.

The music will tell of the Risen Lord and in nearly every church, special efforts have been put forth to place the congregations in tune with nature.

Holy Week will reach a glorious finale in that Queen Festival of all the year tomorrow, Easter day. In honor of Christ crucified and risen, the services of Easter will endeavor to point out the brighter side of life—the silver lining to the clouds overhead, the sunshine that follows the rain, the fragrance of the sweet little flower that grows by the wayside, unnoticed and alone.

The Sunday school of the First Evangelical Lutheran church will give an Easter program, as follows: Evening at 7:30 o'clock, as follows: Anthem "Calvary," choir.

Communion.
Anthem, "Sweet Easter Time," vested choir.
Recitations, Mildred Albright, Mildred Bohn, Ruth Finicle, John Arbaugh.

Song, "Jubilate," school.
Recitations, Mildred Burkhardt, Lula Ewing, Clarence Johns and Mary Smith.

Song, "Jesus is Risen," Hettie Snyder's class.
Recitations, Marie Brogee, Charlotte Krafz, Gladys Baker and Ruth Stephan.

Solo, "Bring the Easter Flowers," Luther Spayde.
Exercise, Marguerite Moyer's girls.

Recitations, Melvonne Smith, John Kraft and Richard Snyder.
Drill, Mr. Rupright's class.

Recitation, Irene Hocks.
Recitation, "The Burial of Jesus," Rhelma Myers.

Recitation, Kittle Smith.
Exercise, primary (four).
Anthem, choir.

Recitations, Mary Stephan and Romaine Walters.
Pantomime "Calvary," Cleo Myers and Helen Bowers.

Offering.
Song, "Hail the Risen King," school.

Easter at the First Baptist church will be observed in a delightful manner and the music especially pleasing. A choice program has been prepared for the vesper service at 4 o'clock. At that time J. Allan Grubb, well-known tenor and local favorite, will sing.

The Mendelssohn Male chorus, Ladies' chorus and the Mixed chorus will add to the interest of the occasion.

The Vesper program at 4 o'clock is as follows:
Prelude, "Grand Offertoire," (Bastiste).

Anthem, "Hallelujah! Christ is Risen," (Perkins). Mendelssohn Male chorus, with solo by Thomas Peat.

Invocation.
Duet, "I Will Extol Thee," (Williams), James A. Grubb and Fred M. Calvert.

Anthem, "As It Began at Dawn," (Rogers). Mendelssohn mixed chorus, with solos by Mrs. R. H. Eberole and Mr. Grubb.

Reading, "An Easter Story," Mrs. J. K. Bannister.
Women's part song "Victory," (Shelley). Mendelssohn Ladies' chorus.

Tenor solo, "Hosanna," (Garner). Mr. Grubb.
Offertory, "Minuet in G," (Beethoven).

Anthem, "Calvary," (Rodney Perkins). Mendelssohn Male chorus with solos by Mr. Calvert and Mr. Grubb.

Postlude, "March Triumphant," (Dubois).
At the morning service King David's Children' choir will sing. The Mendelssohn choir will sing two fine Easter anthems with incidental solos by Oscar N. Young, Miss Eva Hopper, Miss Helen Wood, Mr. Grubb and Fred M. Calvert.

An Easter program will be given at Second street Methodist church Sunday evening at 6:45 p. m., as follows:

Anthem, "O, Be Joyful," choir.
Solo, "Easter Dawn," Mrs. Spyker Quartette, "Whisper of Peace," Mrs. Robins, Miss Paulding, Mrs. Watt, Mrs. Bivins.

Recitation, Miss Mosel.
Double duet, "This is the Day," Miss Bentz, Mrs. Robins, Mrs. Watt, Mrs. Musie.

Girls' chorus, "Risen for Me," Anthem, "Christ is Risen," choir.

Anthem, "Hosanna to the Son of David," (E. S. Lorenz), choir.
Anthem, "He Is Not Here," (E. L. Ashford), choir.

Piano solo, Frederica Raymer.
Anthem, "As It Began at Dawn," (Combs), choir.

Anthem, "Lift Up Your Heads," choir.
Cornet solo, "The Palm," (Faure) Harvey Johnson.

"The Last Seven Words of Christ," a sacred cantata, by Dubois, will be rendered by a chorus of thirty voices accompanied by an orchestra of 14 pieces, organ and piano. The work is of the modern French school, rich in harmonic coloring, dramatic effects, beautiful melodies and clear contrasts. The solos will be taken by Mrs. Shaffer, Dwight Welding, Mr. Watkins, Thomas Peat, Mr. Morris and Donald John.

Easter music at the Central Church of Christ will include organ music by Miss Esther Lynch.

Prelude, "Minister March," "Lohengrin-Wagner."
Offertory, "To a Wild Rose," (McDowell).

Postlude, "Allegretto (Goldmark).
Anthem, "On the Way to Jerusalem," (Wensley).

INMATES MAY ERECT NEW BUILDING AT STATE HOSPITAL.
Bids for the construction of the residence of Superintendent Clarke of the Lima State Insane hospital were rejected yesterday by Engineer Riddle of the state board for the second time because they were in excess of the appropriation, which is $12,000. Clarke states that he will make a request of the board of administration that some of the skilled mechanics of the Ohio State Penitentiary be sent to assist in beginning the work. Some of the patients of the hospital will also be used on the work.

What Ails You?
The best time to cure a cough is when it starts. Ordinarily, a few boxes of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure a cough at the beginning. But even when the cough is deep-seated and the body is wasted by emaciation, "Medical Discovery" will in most cases effect a permanent cure.

Have you become run-down, weak, emaciated, pale after a long siege of colds? Does the skin show that the blood is thick and watery? Spring is the time when vitality is at its lowest ebb—clean house now—by ridding the body of its accumulated poisons. Refresh the blood with a stimulating tonic.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, free from alcohol or narcotics and extracted from roots and barks with pure glycerine, banishes from the blood all poison and impure matter.

Wooster, Ohio.—"I am very well pleased with 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I had throat and lung trouble. Six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' cured me so that I had no return for a long time. This was when we lived near Canton in Stark Co., Ohio. We are never without Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. We keep them in the house and use them for biliousness as they are needed. As our experience with these remedies covers over seventeen years, it ought to have weight as a recommendation."—Mrs. J. H. CHRISTENSEN, South Grant Street, Wooster, Ohio.

The Week In Society

—MARIE N. NAGEL—

The world itself keeps Easter Day,
And Easter larks are singing;
And Easter flowers are blooming gay,
And Easter buds are springing,
Alleluia! Alleluia!
The Lord of all things lives anew,
And all his works are living too,
Alleluia! Alleluia!

—JOHN MASON NEALE.

AND now comes Easter week, with everyone feeling the call of spring. Society which has been dormant through the Lenten weeks will now have much to occupy its time and energy.

For the club women there will be the bi-ennial for which to make preparations. The tercentenary of the death of Shakespeare will claim its share of attention, being celebrated by the High School, the Shakespeare Study club and the literary committee of the Federated clubs, Monday afternoon at the High School building on West High street. Members of the Arbutus club will have the pleasure of listening to a lecture by Mr. Oldys on Shakespeare Monday afternoon at Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. Shuster-Martin will soon appear here in recital. In fact there seems to be little time for rest or spring housecleaning for those women who are actively engaged in club work.

For the younger social set there will be teas, receptions, bridge parties and dances. Tripping of the light fantastic will be given the appropriate innovation next Tuesday evening by the Wayfarers at their club rooms, followed Wednesday evening by the Episcopalian club. Elks and Masons are planning their summer dances, which, if one can judge from appearances, will be far superior to any they have previously given.

Once more, like the weather man, predictions seem very favorable for a gay season in society.

Devotees of society and the higher forms of entertainment will welcome the announcement that one of the earliest after-Lenten affairs is to be an evening of reading by that sterling entertainer, Mrs. Helen Schuster-Martin, of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Martin is to appear at the First Baptist church under the direction of the Young Ladies' Circle of the church. She will read from "Dissrael" which is not a historical play, but merely a successful attempt to show a picture of the days of Dissrael together with some of the radical, social and political prejudices he fought and conquered. It is a three-act drama by Louis N. Parker, one of the big successes of the past season.

There is not on the professional reading stage today a more charming, virile or magnetic reader than this gifted woman, the head of the Schuster-Martin school, Walnut Hills, Cincinnati. She has given the current season 34 complete dramas with sketches of authors and analytical outline of the play. She is the head of that recherche little home of the drama in Cincinnati, The Little Playhouse, which is as select in its clientele as the Broadway theatre in New York. Mrs. Schuster-Martin is already popular in social Lima and will be welcomed as a Limasite know so well how to receive a prime favorite. The date is Wednesday evening, May 10.

Miss Marie Stolly and Miss Marie Gagin will be the guests of friends in Cincinnati over Easter. They will spend the week-end in Dayton visiting Miss Theda Doro.

Monday, Shakespeare lovers will have a rare delight in showing their appreciation by buying the Shakespeare Study club. These book plates are very attractive containing 25 they do eight significant features relating to the life of the poet. These features consist of the photograph, autograph, picture of the Stratford church, coat of arms, colors which are purple and gold, the mask of the tragedy and comedy and the date of his birth and death. The original plate will be destroyed after the celebration and the book-plates can be purchased for the modest sum of a cent. The committee of the City Loan scholarship fund will have charge of the sale of these and orders can be given to the chairman of the committee who is Mrs. E. V. Ogilvie of West Spring street.

Announcement was made Thursday evening of the engagement of Miss Gladys Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Patterson, of West Spring street, to Ross Pepple at a dinner given at the home of Miss Patterson. An appropriate color scheme was carried out in pink and white, the surprise being revealed by initials of both young persons concerned on tiny pink hearts running to each corner from a big bowl of white roses which centered the table. Guests were the Misses Frieda Fleming, Janet Fleming, Margaret McElvain, Alene Hoover, Martha Steuber, Mildred Jones, Helene Spannagle, Grace May, Lella Neff, Esther Davis, Edith Jones, Minerva Pepple, Helen Polser, Winona Neuman, Ella Churchill and Mrs. Miller. The Misses Catherine Jones, Sly Patterson and Agnes Patterson served.

Miss Dora Jones entertained the members of the Piliatna class of the Grace M. E. church at her home last evening. Officers for the coming year were elected, being Miss Nina Goodwin, president for the year; Miss Lila Tipple, vice president; Miss Birdie Cary, secretary; Miss Mary Ring, treasurer; Miss Elizabeth Reid, pianist; Miss Elizabeth, chorister.

A financial report of the standing of the class was given and it was found $272 had been turned in on the building fund in the last year. Guests at the meeting other than the members were the Misses Mabel

The following excerpt was taken from among the college notes of the University of Cincinnati in the Cincinnati Enquirer:

"Biennial convention of Delta Province of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, national college fraternity, was opened last night with an initiation and smoker at the University of Cincinnati chapter house, 2210 Ohio avenue. Initiates were Carl Neville Lima, Ohio, and Joseph Rice, Monroeton, Penn.

Mr. and Mrs. Shaffer Vandivier of St. Johns wish to announce the marriage of their daughter, Eve, and Ray Shuler of Lima, which took place at the M. E. church in Monroe Mich., January 25, 1916. Both parties reside in Lima, and the secret of their marriage will be a surprise to their many friends. They will be "at home" after Easter at their newly furnished home, 592 Reece avenue, Lima.—Wapakoneta News.

Monday evening at the High school auditorium, Mr. Oldys will lecture to the children of the city and their parents on "Birds and Their Habits." All mothers should insist that their children hear this lecture for there is probably no other man quite like Mr. Oldys in the respect to authority on his subject. He is an officer of the Audubon society and a state authority. Through the courtesy of the Bird Lovers League of Cleveland the clubs of this city were fortunate in bringing him here. His imitation of the bird notes and calls is wonderful and all through his address he illustrates with colored slides. There is no admission asked and again it is urged that parents attend with their children.

The Rev. and Mrs. M. B. Fuller and Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Fieley will leave a week from today for Saratoga Springs where they will attend the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. Mrs. Fuller and Mrs. Fieley will go to New York City to attend the bi-ennial convention of the Federated Women's club.

Girls Social Service club will present tonight the Miami Glee club at the Central Church of Christ.

There will be an important meeting of the Home Economics Committee of City Federation on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Luah A. Butler, 684 West Spring street.

There is every indication that the May Day century of Dress will be filled with interest from 1 to 10 p. m. for Memorial Hall will have booths all around the sides where one can study some of the changes of the past century and watch those of today.

Prof. Laux is hard at work drilling the Junior Music club girls for the May Pole dance, and also a group of young men and maidens who are learning the stately court minuet, which will be one of the most attractive numbers on the program.

The girls in the Millinery Class in the Domestic Arts department of High school are busy at work completing hats for the exhibition as well as dresses, suits, etc.

The Domestic Science classes of High school are also interested and will have a display of their cakes. Premiums will be offered in all these millinery, sewing and cooking.

Mrs. Frank Graham and daughter Pauline, were guests of Mrs. Catherine Wirls of Wapakoneta, yesterday.

Marrying for Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Marian Townsend Gets Some Good Advice From Olive Ellison.

"YES, I suppose Ortrude is trying to help in every way possible," said Marian Townsend, wiping her eyes. "I know I am hateful, but I liked it far better when she confined her activities to the kitchen and spent her spare time in her own room. It makes me furious with rage when I see her sitting by Daddy reading to him and doing the devoted wife after all the ruin and misery she has brought into the home." Marian put her handkerchief to her eyes and her shoulders heaved.

"You sit right down here by me and relieve your feelings with a good cry. It will make you feel better," Olive Ellison pulled the girl down on the couch beside her and stroked her hair, drawing her head to her shoulder.

"When I see dear Daddy lying there so patient and helpless and know, just know he would have been all right if he had never seen that woman, I hate her," Marian's eyes blazed.

"Don't talk of hating people, Marian. Hatred is a terrible thing to harbor in your heart. You have seen plants all baked about the roots; the soil so hard that no moisture could get to the roots, haven't you? Well, hatred hardens one's nature so that no dew from heaven can reach the soul. You can never grow spiritually while you hate anybody."

Olive drew the girl close to her while she talked. "Hatred is a boomerang that comes back and injures the one who threw it."

"Nothing injures her. She walks serenely on while she has strewn all our lives with wreckage. There is no justice in having everybody suffer except the principal offender."

"Do not envy her," said Olive softly.

"She is the last one I should want to change places with. She is planting thorns for her pillow."

"I don't see how. She has a comfortable property settled on her. If Daddy should die," Marian's voice broke—"she would take herself away and be independent for life. She would get what she married him for, money, while she would leave us a broken family, crippled financially in the bargain. There is no justice in that."

"If she could take money obtained at such a cost and not suffer, her soul must be callous indeed. I do not believe she is so hardened as that."

There was silence for a while, then Olive said softly:

"Would you change places with her? That is the test. Would you give up your beautiful memories, memories that nothing can change or spoil?"

"They are spoiled now. When I think how Daddy has been made to suffer because of her selfishness all the dear memories are made bitter. Oh, why did she have to come into our lives? We were so happy. Ever since mother died Daddy has been father and mother too. He lived for us. He—"

"Don't you see, dear," interrupted Olive, "that nothing can change the memory of those happy years? She did not take your father from you in spirit. I have seen homes where the new wife turned the love of the father away from the children. Your father was devoted to all of you to the end."

"Of course she could not do that," replied Marian.

"So you see the worst has not befallen, and you must learn to be brave for Dudley's sake, for you will be all that if left of a home for him after your father is gone," urged Olive.

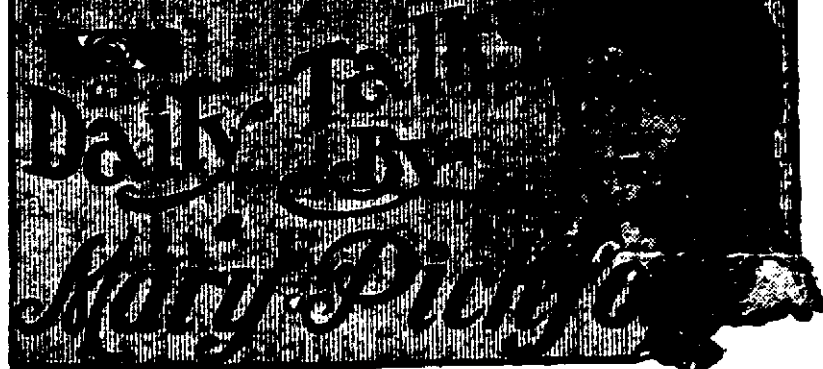

"Dear Dudley: I must do all I can for him. We must stand by each other," said Marian, wiping her eyes.

"It has helped me, this talk and cry. I feel stronger to go on now. Thank you, dear Mrs. Ellison."

Olive stooped and kissed the girl as she bade her good-bye at the door.

Miss Mary Byrne of Wapakoneta, is the guest of relatives in this city.

THROUGH OPEN WINDOWS

Copyright 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

IT IS not only the small boy who looks with envy through the window where there spreads before him a feast of good things, but we are all prone to spend too much time longing for that which is just beyond our reach.

Every time I am dissatisfied with anything, I catch myself in time and say: "Mary Pickford, you are looking through open windows. Put the shades down quickly and learn to be contented."

Scold yourself seriously, then take yourself to task, and if you do get angry with your own shortcomings it is ever so much wiser than to turn upon any one near you and whip your disappointment or chagrin out on them.

As long as we are looking through open windows, just for fun let us pull up the shades of our neighbors' houses and see what they are hiding from us, and much will we find that will surprise, amuse and teach us.

Here comes a widowed mother who is carrying the burden of supporting several children and it has never occurred to us to give her a helping hand.

There hobbles a little crippled child who needs to go to the country, and here are two misguided young girls who dreamed of being moving-picture actresses, but fell by the wayside because they were not sure of themselves. If we do not stretch out a guiding hand to help them, they will soon be on the streets.

Ah, here come the people whom we have always thought so kind and considerate of humanity because of their ever smiling faces. But now the window is open and we can look right into the depths of their souls.

"Hypocrites!" we cry. "Why, they have bared their hearts! We have let them trick us and they have been laughing at us all the time instead of smiling upon us!"

Then here comes a rusty old fellow who has been valet for 20 years to men whose fame has reached two continents, although it is with a smile we remember Carlyle's words, "No man is a hero to his valet."

"Have you any interesting stories to tell?" we stop to ask him as he passes by. "Secrets—without mentioning names!" we add, to ease our own conscience. The valet ponders a while, for he is quite a philosopher.

"People haven't as many secrets as they have peculiarities," he begins, "and, do you know, when I see a man's clothes, without even a glimpse of the man, I can tell you his disposition, his mental characteristics and most of his personal habits."

"There are distinguishing odors about clothes, too—tobacco, liquor, perfumes, musk, and each has its little story to tell."

"Men and their habits—that is another chapter," he continues. "Why, one man I served for many years has dozens and dozens of pairs of shoes, for they are his hobby, and strongest of all, he loves his old shoes the best and would not give a pair away—no, not a pair."

"Served another master who got superstitious about an old silk hat he had worn for years. 'I tell you, ma'am, it was a caricature, that hat was, for my master himself had sat on it many times by mistake, but, 'I am attached to that hat, Ruggles,' he used to warn me, 'and I won't let a new one take its place,' so, ma'am, for the five years I was with him it was that silk hat or none."

"Here's another yarn," and the old fellow chuckled with awakened interest. "about the man I served who had made a lot of money in New York, but had come from a small town in the middle west. 'Ruggles,' he confided to me one day, 'I never want you to crease my trousers ex-

SISTER: READ MY FREE OFFER!

I am a woman. I know a woman's trials. I know her need of sympathy and help. If you, my sister, are unhappy because of ill health, if you feel unfit for household duties, social pleasures, daily employment, write and tell me just how you suffer, and ask for my free ten days' trial of a home treatment suited to your needs. We cannot understand women's suffering, what we women know from experience, we know better than any man. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home at a cost of about 12 cents a week.

If you suffer from women's peculiar ailments causing pain in the head, back, or bowels, feeling of weight and dragging-down sensation, falling or displacement of public organs, causing kidney and bladder weakness or constipation and piles, painful or irregular periods, catarrhal conditions and discharges, causing nervousness, depressed spirits, melancholy, desire to cry, creeping feeling along the spine, palpitation, hot flashes, weariness, salivary complexion with dark circles under the eyes, pain in the left breast, or a general feeling that life is not worth living.

I INVITE YOU TO SEND TODAY FOR MY FREE TEN DAYS' TREATMENT and learn how these ailments can be easily and surely conquered at home without the danger and expense of an operation. When you are cured, and able to enjoy life again, you can pass the good word along to some other sufferer. I have been treated in this way for years. I will explain how to overcome green sickness (chlorosis), irregularities, headaches, and lassitude in young women and tell you if you are worthy of the free treatment. I will send you my illustrated booklet, "Woman's Own Medical Adviser." I will send all in plain wrapper free of charge. To save time, you can cut out this offer, mark your feelings, and return to me. Send today, as you may not see this offer again. Address: MRS. M. SYMMERS, Box 10, SOUTH BEND, IND.

The Woman's City Club of Los Angeles, a few nights ago, entertained the latest group of people of overseas birth admitted to United States citizenship in that community. We are told, in a newspaper reference to the affair, that the new voters were not stood up in a line and patronized or lectured, but were treated to a program which they enjoyed in common with all other guests of the evening. After all, the new voters are more deeply impressed by what the old voters do than by what they tell others to do.

Offers Women Great Work

Ella Wheeler Wilcox Shows Nature Sunday School Human Nature Broadened and Brutality Eliminated by Proper Study of Woods and Fields—Competent Instructors Needed to Show Natural Beauties to Young.

A YOUNG woman from Brooklyn, who has a Sunday school class of little boys writes enthusiastically on the subject of the Nature Sunday school idea discussed in this column some time ago.

She says: "We have a way of leading human motherhood, but why not meditate sometimes on those little mothers of earth and air? Do women realize that the agony of the human mother upon beholding her death-robed cradle is relatively no more poignant than that of the hen-robin who returning with food for their babies, finds them stoned to death and the little home she was meek in preparing for them ruthlessly destroyed by the thoughtless hand of some offending of God's highest expression."

"Before we women push our selves into politics with the expectation of 'uplifting them' it seems to me we would do well to learn a few lessons still from our original Mother and develop more of the infinite within us.

"In our foolish feverish eagerness to mimic our brothers' we seem to have lost sight of the fact that we have a mission of our own which if we fulfill it, will place us on a higher plane than any we can manufacture for ourselves! Naturehood—MOTHERHOOD! Crowd out nature and you kill maternal and where will our world be?"

All possible success to the Nature Sunday school! It will develop the children physically, mentally and spiritually, eliminate aimless torture, awaken women to a finer sense of their peculiar responsibility and please the Creator!

"Very careful attention should be given to the selection of teachers,

There are skilled naturalists (I have met them) who go into the study quite without sentiment—merely as a profession. To them the woods and fields represent little more than places wherein to delve for 'specimens,' and they even cultivate an inclination to dissect every unusual creature that comes within their reach.

"Now, however, much scientific knowledge these may possess, they would never do as interpreters of the Creator's schemes to children's hearts. To my mind, women are best fitted for this work, owing to the inherent maternal instinct—which would be broadened and deepened by the association. What they lack in actual knowledge could be easily made up by a little effort, and the results would be of great benefit to themselves, to the little ones, and also to numerous winged and furred creatures that suffer unjustly for our lack of conscience regarding their rights to life and protection."

The enthusiasm of this young woman is pleasing and her ideas worth while, with the exception of what perhaps might seem to be an Anti-Equal Franchise tendency. There is no earthly reason why a woman cannot develop the infinite within her and study everything which leads to great and good motherhood, and, at the same time, know enough of political conditions to cast an intelligent vote.

Wherever woman has the franchise there is a marked decrease in drunkenness. The writer was told a few years ago by a resident of New Zealand, a man, that alcoholism decreased 60 per cent in that land after women went into politics.

Surely this thought is worth dwelling upon.

MOST ALL KINDS OF MONEY CIRCULATE AT PORT OF HAVRE

British, French and Belgian Coins Used in Retail Trade.

War Congests Traffic at the Most Cosmopolitan City of France.

HAVRE, April 19.—Havre has always been the most cosmopolitan port in France, but never before the war would you get three British half-pence and a Belgian sou in eight cents worth of small change. That triviality is symbolical of the Havre of today—only half French, three-eighths British and an eighth Belgian.

It is the influx of the British that has doubled the traffic of the port during the past nineteen months and congested the docks until scores of ships are at times seen lying for days together in the offing waiting for a spot to become vacant at the quays. The quays themselves are piled with bales of cotton, giving to the port a resemblance to New Orleans.

The cotton sheds, covering 20 acres and fitted with 20 electric cranes, have become insufficient and the bales are rolled upon the quays everywhere that a ship from New Orleans happens to find a berth.

The traffic of the port of Havre which amounted to 5,400,000 tons in 1913 was less than half that of Rotterdam and only a little more than a third of that of Antwerp and Hamburg. The reasons for it were largely lack of docking facilities and the limited railroad communications with Paris at the center of France. Even before the war, ships were sometimes held up in the roads waiting their turn to dock, and a new basin called the "Tidal Basin" was planned and partly finished with a view to relieving congestion.

The congestion of traffic now is not only a hindrance to commerce but a danger to navigation, which greater vigilance on the part of the French navy against German submarines may obviate but which is considered sufficiently serious at the present time to justify consideration of the temporary use of the uncompleted tidal basin as a refuge for vessels, waiting their turn to dock.

The town itself is far more animated than in time of peace, and is unavoidably getting rich from the vast expenditures of the British commissary department and the individual trade of officers and soldiers. English shop signs are seen everywhere alongside the French, for "Tommy Atkins" is slow in learning the language.

One of the most conspicuous things one sees in the Rue de Paris, the principal street in the town, is "British Bar" in big, brave British red on the window of a saloon. A little further on a sign points the way to the "British Soldiers' Club," another sign post directs men to the "British Officers' Club," while there are tea rooms everywhere and restaurants that conspicuously advertise "Ham and Eggs," "The right shop for British," "Come in and demand for all the things which you want," "Football boots," are among some of the appeals to the soldiers.

British transports have the right-of-way over all other ships in the harbor and at the docks, and the British prevail everywhere on shore. Some people at Havre have inquired whether the British occupation is going to last forever, an inquiry inspired by the seemingly permanent character of the installations for the different services of the British army and for the British troops. Most people at Havre will be glad if it does, because they are getting rich—all, excepting the fishermen. The herding catch has diminished 50 per cent, while all the other commerce of Havre has doubled.

Havre is under naval instead of military rule, despite the occupation by the British army. Khaki is the prevailing color, but the French admiral, Biard, is the king of Havre, and Tommy Atkins must submit to his authority. He must quit the saloon at 9 o'clock, and must not be found in a restaurant after 10. Patrols look for him through all the narrow ways and by-ways and in the corners of the docks, and pick him up sharply if found after hours where he should not be.

As to the civilian, he looks in vain for any sort of consideration in Havre; those that live there content themselves in taking British money in exchange for the best rooms, best apartments and best tables in the restaurants. The civilian from abroad gets in with so much difficulty, he feels as if he had broken in and almost insensibly tries to sneak out; this too is difficult, for the man from Scotland Yard considers every civilian guilty of spying until he has proven his innocence; if he happens to speak English, the presumption against him is so much the stronger.

HOLLAND PILES UP MUNITIONS OF WAR AND FOOD STOCKS

buys Great Supplies to Keep in Readiness For Any Invader.

Prepared to Flood Extended Area to Depth of One Foot.

LONDON, April 22.—With its army of 400,000 men, trained to a fine point since the great war began, its two defensive water lines and their barrier fortresses and the formidable coast guns, Holland's 2,500,000 brave inhabitants are ready to offer a desperate and effective resistance to any enemy.

Two things only Holland lacks—ammunition and food.

If cut off from the outside world, the doughty little state would seem to suffer from lack of coal and iron mines to supply the industrial needs of war and from lack of the farming land capable of feeding all her people.

No wonder the months since Aug. 1, 1914, have been worried ones for Queen Wilhelmina and her advisers. With both England and Germany ready to buy almost anything offered at a high price, money has flowed into the coffers of many Dutchmen. The shipping companies have grown rich despite the vessels lost.

But to counterbalance this, a great portion of the male population has been kept under arms and so withdrawn from the fruitful labor, great tax levies have been necessitated by the mobilization, and the constant fear of embroilment with one or both of the warring alliances has caused sleepless nights and restless days.

An attack on Holland from the sea is almost impossible. The coast for the most part is low and sandy with a great stretch of shallow water which prevents large boats approaching nearer than half a dozen miles. The few openings at the ports are protected with cunningly planned forts where great guns could pound a hostile squadron to pieces without themselves being in serious danger.

But the unique feature of Holland's defense system is on the land. If attacked from the east, the Dutch would almost immediately abandon the eastern half of their country. No larger cities stand here and the land is of little value compared with the western half.

Wilhelmina's armies would retire behind what is known as the New Holland water line. A stretch of country starting from the south shore of the Zuider Zee and extending south and then west until it reaches the Holland Deep just west of the mouth of the River Meuse (or Maas) would be flooded to a depth of one foot.

On the west edge of this gigantic moat stands a line of strong fortresses commanding it. The only ways across this moat are roads, railway lines and river banks. These are higher than the sea level, while most of the land is well below the sea, in some places as much as twenty feet. All these causeways could be raked by a harrowing fire from the barrier forts.

The Dutch could flood the country much deeper, but they do not wish to do so. A foot of water prevents navigation even in flat bottom boats. It also prevents wading for several reasons. The ground below the water becomes a soggy mass in which the feet sink and are held. The country is cut up with many canals, ponds and other depressions into which soldiers or an invading army would fall and perish.

The Dutch have plenty of men to defend this line—for an enemy could only use a few men against them. Even if the enemy, with incredible labor could build enough passage ways across the water line to storm the defenses in the rear, the Dutch would not have to yield. They would then retire to a second and stronger water line, starting at the same place as the first and making a great circle to the westward and northward to terminate on the Zuider Zee again. Amsterdam is about in the center of this water line.

Dutch ammunition factories have been working night and day since the war began and quite a large store of shells has been piled up. Large quantities have also been bought in Norway, Sweden and the United States.

The Holland war department has concentrated its supplies in four great centers, one for a northern army, one for a central army and another for a southern army. Trenches have been dug along the east frontier and here the troops could stand off invaders a little while, to give time for the first water line to fill.

A state of partial martial law is already in force. Munition makers cannot leave the country. Committees have been formed to provide work and assistance for families of mobilized men. The use of wireless by individuals and on private ships has been forbidden.

Undoubtedly the thorough preparations of the Dutch are the only thing which has kept them from falling into the war caldron long ago.

The young men, due to join the colors for military service this fall have already been called out and these are returning by the landweer (equivalent to the German landwehr).

For a long time Holland resisted universal military service. She depended on professional or volunteer soldiers as more in accordance with her great democratic traditions. But several years before this war the Hollanders came to a realization of the folly of trusting to a "citizen army," to be raised after war began.

Military service now devolves equally on all citizens, although there are exemptions of certain specified classes. About 50,000 men come of military age every year. Of these, about 28,000 are taken into the army and 600 into the navy. Sixty per cent of the young men escape military service.

The present conscription law had been in force only eighteen months when the war began, and so the full effects of its provisions have not yet been realized.

The period of training for most branches is fixed at eight and one-half months. This is a very short term of instruction, and there is the additional drawback that the ranks are much depleted the third year between the departure of one class and the arrival of the new class.

Since the war began, however, the army has been mobilized on a war footing, and the three classes of 1913, 1914 and 1915 are all with the colors.

While the Dutch army is generally put at 400,000 men today, no one knows the exact figures except the higher officers of the Dutch general staff. The active or field army comprises 150,000 men. To this must be added the forces attached to the fortress artillery about 25,000 strong, and the landwehr. The latter consists of trained men.

A Dutch citizen is enrolled with the regulars for eight years and after that with the landwehr for seven years. It is believed the landwehr now comprises about 80,000 men. There are also 5,000 military.

"Touch Wood."

The old custom or superstition of "touching wood" to avert calamity is probably a relic of an old Danish custom that used to be performed in the Morley district, and probably at the Old Oak at Headingley for the Sky-rack (i. e., white oak) Wapentake, says London Tit-Bits. The term "Wapentake" is derived from the old Danish custom of the men of a district, at the meeting at which they elected their leader, touching his weapons in token of fealty. The annual muster, or "Wapenshaw," took place immediately after the "Wapentake," so that the king's reeve could inspect the men and their arms. The custom of touching the wooden shaft of the leader's spear doubtless took place at this annual inspection. The ceremony of "taking the salute" at a modern review is most likely a survival of this ancient Danish custom.

FAUROT—FIELD'S MINSTRELS. himself as a producer who maintains Here is our old friend Al G. the highest ideals of the theatre, Field in town again. No season is and at the same time believes that complete without a visit from the public knows a good play, the appearance of Mr. William Faversham in a new production is always a mat- parable organization and a big crowd of first importance. For this reason the booking of Mr. Faversham in his new piece, "The Hawk" at the Opera House for one performance only on Thursday night, May 4, will awaken lively anticipation among the playgoers. Mr. Faversham does not bring "The Hawk" to this city as an experiment, for its popularity earned the play a year's run in New York. It is said that in his new character Mr. Faversham has found a part worthy of his talents as a player of the first rank and that never has he done better work in the course of his brilliant career. It is particularly pleasant to find in its support the usual excellent organization for which his productions in the past have been notable. Mr. Faversham strives always to give the greatest

The curtain goes up on a busy levee scene in New Orleans, showing the loading of the famous Robert E. Lee on her voyage to St. Louis, when she raced with the equally famous Natchez. The scene is very realistic and characteristically southern. Then the scene shifts to the grand cabin of the Robert E. Lee, where the entire company is assembled and where the old-time first part antics are engaged in. There is no lack of good singing. John Healy in "Old Black Joe," Walter Sherwood in "I Love You Best of All," A. W. Church in "Dear Old Dad Loves You, Too," John Healy in "Oh, Isabella," Harry G. Shunk in "I Wasn't Scared, But I Just Thought I'd Leave," and, of course, Jack Richards had to sing that mournful ditty with the refrain: "Will kings give a thought To the heartaches they've wrought To that little gray mother at home."

No minstrel show can possibly be a success without that sort of sentimentality. The one thing Mr. Fields is to be commended for particularly is that no one was allowed to sing "I Didn't Raise My Boy to Be a Soldier." For that artistic omission, many thanks, Al.

There is a world of dancing throughout the show, an especial feature being the dancing of Dennie O'Neil and Al Sexton, a team that displays a lot of cleverness. O'Neil's single specialties were particularly good and funny. Bert Swor stands out prominently for his wonderful funmaking capabilities and in "The Hotel" he was a scream. "Merry Moments in Music Land" was another delight that won enthusiastic applause. The big feature is the wind-up, "Auntie Skinner's Chicken Dinner," a miniature farce that shows all of the principals at their best.

The show throughout is full of laughter, hilarity and fun. Mr. Field has far surpassed all his previous efforts and has never had so thoroughly good a minstrel show. He is entitled to great praise for having brought this class of entertainment up to so high a pitch of artistic skill. Tonight the S. R. sign should be in evidence, and probably will.

pleasure of the theatre, and in the present instance all sorts of playgoers will find that he has a play to their liking.

STAR THEATRE.

It is doubtful if any theatre in town has a more loyal clientele than the cosy Star. Its patrons may always be assured of pictures that are absolutely new, for the Star shows the only genuine first-run pictures in Lima, but of splendid quality. Today popular Ben Wilson is there in a new three-reel Rex drama, "His World of Darkness," which is full of good acting and fine photography. Clara Beyer is seen in the leading feminine role. The Animated Weekly, with pictures of recent world events, is also on the bill.

For Sunday the Star will have a fine new program, nicely varied with comedy and drama. Raymond Nye and Roberta Wilson, two new recruits to the Universal forces, will appear in a two-reel Gold Seal drama, "His Other Half," popular William Garwood will be seen in an Imp comedy, "Billie's War Brides," and Billie Rhodes and Ray Gallagher are chief funmakers in a Nestor comedy, "His Wooden Leg."

FAUROT'S PICTURES.

The opening of the post-Lenten season finds the Faurot announcing some rare attractions for the coming week. Brilliant stars of stage and screen are to be seen in productions from famous literary works and the added features are of both amusing and educational value.

For Sunday and Monday the Faurot will have Pauline Frederick, whose beauty and powerful emotional talents have made her the foremost dramatic actress on the screen today. Miss Frederick will appear in the "Famous Players-Paramount production of "Audrey," an adaptation of the celebrated novel by Mary Johnston. "Audrey" differs from Miss Frederick's previous screen impersonations in the great feeling of sympathy which the arouses. It is a most lovable character instead of one of the siren sort in which she has so often appeared. There will be two added features to this program: new Bray-Gilbert Silhouettes, "Inbad the Sailor Gets Into Deep Water," and Paramount Pictographs, the "screen magazine," with its departments of Preparedness, the Tricicks, Psychology, famous Hands, Fashions, Cartoons, etc. It is a brilliant program of delightful interest.

For the first time in several photodramas, Blanche Sweet will have an opportunity to display several of her beautiful gowns in the Lasky production of "The Sowers," in which she will be seen at the Faurot on Tuesday and Wednesday. This story of Russian political intrigue, founded on Henry Seton Merriman's novel of the same name, was adapted especially for Miss Sweet by Marion Fairfax. The popular star will appear as a member of the royal Russian household. She has a wonderful supporting company, with Theodore Roberts at its head in another magnificent character creation. Others in the cast are Thomas Meighan, Mabel Van Buren, H. B. Carpenter,

The offering at the Faurot on Thursday and Friday will be the new Metro production, "The Price of Malice," a stirring story of diplomatic adventure with the distinguished romantic actor, Hamilton Revelle, in the leading role. Barbara Tennant, the charming and talented actress, is featured in Mr. Revelle's support, which also includes William Davidson, Helen Dunbar, Frank Glendon and other well known players of the Metro organization. On this bill Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew will present another of their delightful little comedies, "His Quiet Little Honeymoon."

For Saturday the Faurot will have a return of one of the most charming photoplays that ever graced the screen at that theater, in "Wild Olive," the Oliver Morosco production with Myrtle Stedman in the leading role. This charming and beautiful actress is a prime favorite with patrons of the Faurot. Her every appearance on the screen is marked with such grace and sweetness that everybody delights in seeing her in a role that gives her opportunity for the display of her captivating personality. New Paramount pictures will also be shown on this program.

later turned into movies, and then dramatized. It is an old fashioned love story written by Owen Davis with a wonderful heart interest. The Chet Keyes and players company will be especially suited to the production of this high quality play, and perfect scenic investiture will be given.

In coming to this city, Chet Keyes and players company have but one intention, that is to give the Lima amusement lovers the best stock plays that talent and money can produce. This company has had many long and successful runs, having stayed eighty some weeks in Wichita, Kansas; thirty-two weeks at the Jefferson theatre, Dallas Texas, and just finished a twenty weeks engagement at the Orpheum theatre, Zanesville, Ohio. The company is headed by Chet Keyes, the well known, happy-go-lucky comedian, and the famous Keyes Sisters, Dot and Helen. William K. Hack will play the leading male roles, and the sisters will alternate leads in the opposite roles. The policy of this company will be to produce two complete Broadway successes each week changing the bill every Monday and Thursday.

For those who enjoy a play out of the ordinary, we suggest that you witness Chet Keyes and Players production of "What Happened to Mary." This play is described as an old fashioned love story and is classed with such successes as "The Old Homestead," "Way Down East" and "Shore Acres." Mary lives in an oyster shipping village on Chesapeake Bay with a miserly uncle and a sororistic aunt. His friend is Captain Jorgier, a trusty old sea dog, who gave her the rudiments of an education. City people visit the island. Henry Craig, an unprincipled youth, engaged in sowing his wild oats, his aunt, Mrs. Winthrop and his father being made miserable by her uncle who tries to force her to marry Tuck Wintergreen, a fisherman. Mary rebels and escapes to New York with Captain Jorgier's help. Henry Craig had secretly given her a card, urging her to meet him at Mrs. Gibbs' boarding house in the tendorloin of New York. After a few hours at this house, Henry's villainy is disclosed. Mary unobserved watches the scene between the young man and girl, Anna Welsh, to whom he had paid too many attentions.

John Willis, though a woman hater, knowing of the injury done by Henry Craig to Anna Welsh, visits Mrs. Gibbs' house, with the firm determination of forcing Craig to right the wrong done Anna. He meets Mary, and learning she is ignorant of her surroundings, and lack of knowledge of city life, suggests that she remove to more respectable quarters, and offers her a position as stenographer in his office, which she accepts. Here Mary meets with a series of adventures. Anna Welsh was formerly the stenographer for Willis, and believing Henry Craig to be in love with Mary, schemes to dishonor her. Her plans however fail, through the interference of John Willis, but not before Mary's name had been clouded. Disheartened and discouraged, Mary returns to her home on Mose's Island on Chesapeake Bay, where she is quickly followed by John Willis, who established her innocence. While making his investigations, he makes the great discovery that all women are not alike, and much to his surprise finds himself in love with Mary.

The characters in "What Happened to Mary" are all human, his heart interest genuine, and its healthiness of motive is untainted. Nothing more is needed to establish it firmly as a worthy contribution to the stage.

There will only be one matinee of this play, that being Tuesday Tomorrow (Sunday) afternoon and night, the great William Fox feature picture, Violet Horner in "The Marble Heart" also vaudeville.

EMPIRE TOMORROW.

The most expensive single scene ever photographed for use in a motion picture, is the big railroad wreck in the V. L. S. E. feature "The Gods of Fate", which will be shown at the Empire tomorrow. In this scene two trains, a passenger and a freight, meet in a head on collision traveling at the rate of forty miles an hour. To make the picture which cost twenty-five thousand dollars, fifteen camera men were employed, at the moment of the actual crash were within twelve feet of the speeding trains. To protect themselves from clouds of steam and flying wreckage, they worked behind armor plate shields, similar to those used by the U. S. artillery. When everything was ready, the cameras commenced to click, six thousand spectators held their breath, the two trains gaining a greater speed every minute rushed towards each other. With a roar that could be heard miles, they met, and when the steam from the explosion rolled away, the freight train was completely destroyed, seats from the passenger coaches were found over fifty feet away, the coaches were squeezed together like a closed accordion, their frames completely telescoping one another and resting in the ruined engine. Also in the picture is a fire scene, which was intended to be a small affair, but which gained such headway, that it required two hours work, on the part of six engine companies to put it under control. The two scenes, the railroad wreck and the fire scenes are without a doubt the most thrilling and expensive scenes ever produced.

FIRST RUN PICTURES AT STRAND THEATRE TOMORROW

At the Strand tomorrow will be shown first run Mutual movies, including a three-reel American as well as Falstaff comedy. Winifred Greenwood and Ed Coxen play the leads in this splendid three-reel and this is another story of the eternal triangle. Will Baring, the son of an old soldier, deserts his wife and child and the old man later learns that the son had been imprisoned for a long term. Not wishing to cause his daughter-in-law any more humiliation, he takes her into his home and induces Gifford, a newspaper editor, to print a notice to the effect that the son had been killed in a railroad wreck. Some time later, the editor met the wife at a summer resort and a love affair soon followed. However, when Gifford learned she was the daughter of the Major Baring whom he had favored in printing a story of the son's death, he could not propose to her. However, the Major again comes to the front and advises Gifford that his son had died in prison. The manner in which this affair was straightened out to the satisfaction of all is best told by the movies. Another Falstaff comedy will furnish the fun and is entitled "The Professor's Peculiar Precautions."

DREAMLAND TOMORROW.

At the Strand tomorrow, is the "War Extra," a feature production of scenes of actual fighting on the Mexican border as well as within Mexico itself. Many will wonder how these movies were taken, but the explanation is given when one sees the production. This picture is made up into a story and with a love romance attached, is stamped the greatest and most timely thing yet produced. This is the story of a newspaper reporter who goes to the border to secure news as to the outcome of the Mexican situation and on the way from Key West to Eagle Pass, Texas, via boat and land, they pass a warship from Vera Cruz with news from the front. Fred hurries to the scene of the great battle of Monclova between the Federals and bandits, secures a motion picture of this great battle, as well as saves the life of a Mexican store-keeper's daughter, thereby incurring the enmity of the bandits. The bandits, through the help of other revolting Mexican troops now attack the shack in which Fred is confined, and while Fred and his followers are defending the shack, Dolores, the Mexican girl, rushes to the border to secure the help of the Americans. There she is joined by a body of Texas rangers and they gallop to the rescue of Fred and his friends. They arrive in the nick of time, and in a fierce battle, they succeed in rescuing the Americans. However, they are compelled to retreat because of superior numbers and just as the cowboys are racing across the border, the pursuing Mexicans are met with a volley from the guns of U. S. regular troops, who had decided to stop the bandits on the border. This is a motion picture of a real fighting in Mexico and the Dreamland is to be congratulated on having a picture of such timeliness.

Cleveland Held to One Hit By Pitcher Groom

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 22.—Groom held Cleveland to one hit while his team mates were pounding the opposition pitchers for 13 hits and St. Louis won the opening game of the American League season here yesterday 11 to 1. Groom held the visitors helpless until the ninth, when with one out, Smith doubled against the rightfield fence, scoring Speaker.

Amazing Appetites.
If a baby had the appetite of a young potato beetle it would eat from 50 to 100 pounds of food every 24 hours. If a horse ate as much as a caterpillar, in proportion to its size it would consume a ton of hay every 24 hours. A caterpillar eats twice its weight of leaves every day but a potato beetle devours every day at least five times its weight of foliage every bit of which represents just so much money to the farmer. The most destructive of all insects, however, is the grasshopper, which, when in good health, consumes in a day ten times its weight of vegetation. No wonder that whole districts are devastated by its multitudinous swarms.

Pittsburg Wins With Harmon In Pitching Form

NEW YORK, April 22.—The Philadelphia champions defeated New York again here yesterday, the score being 6 to 2. The visitors won in the eighth, when with the score a tie, three runs were made on errors by Doyle and Fletcher and on hits by Paskert and Cravath. Score:

National Bowling Tournay

NEW YORK, April 22.—The ocean-to-ocean telegraphic bowling tournament for the trophy presented by Robert M. Thompson of this city will be held tonight. Representatives of many of the large athletic clubs throughout the country complete. Each club rolls three games on its own alleys simultaneously at 10 p. m. eastern time.

Clubs in San Francisco, Seattle and Portland, Oregon, are to bowl at 7 p. m. Pacific coast time. Other clubs to be represented are in Denver, Columbus, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Minneapolis, Brooklyn, Montreal, Pittsburgh and New York.

Scores will be telegraphed among the cities at the end of each of the three games. The team rolling the largest totals will win the trophy.

Help Your Body To Resist Disease

"I find Foley Cathartic Tablets to be the most delightful cleansing cathartic I have ever taken. They are just the thing." G. W. Robeson, Wichita Falls, Tex.

Use Foley Cathartic Tablets to cooperate with nature in her efforts to resist disease. They keep your bowels regular and active, and they prevent poisons from lodging in your intestinal tract, thence being absorbed by your blood into your system. They relieve constipation over night.

There is no unpleasant nausea or griping in the use of Foley Cathartic Tablets. Instead, there is freedom from headaches, biliousness, sluggish dull feeling and nervous irritability. There is for you energy and ambition, ability to enjoy your work and your pleasure. They relieve the unpleasant, gassy, full feeling, and give you a comfortable clean feeling instead. Stout people do so enjoy them.

Gas Service Is Instantaneous

How long does it take to heat your home?

If the house feels chilly or damp—do you have to go down in the cellar and go through the laborious process of building a fire?

Or do you merely have to light a match, turn a valve—and wait a few minutes for welcome warmth and comfort?

In other words, have you heating work or heat-in service in your home?

Players Batting Averages During First Week Play

CHICAGO, April 22.—The usual early season high batting averages prevailed in the first week of the major league season, according to figures published here today, and including games last Wednesday. Jan. vrin of the Boston Americans tops all batters with the startling percentage of .800. In the National League George Burns, New York, Mollwitz, Cincinnati and Butler, St. Louis, have averages of .500.

Hal Chase ranks fourth in the National League with a percentage of .455, is tied with Carey of Pittsburgh for the lead in stolen bases with four, and with Sailer, Chicago and Merkle, New York, for the lead in home runs with one. Following Chase, the batters making up the list of "three-thirty-three" hitters are:

Gonzales, St. Louis, .429, Comp-ton, Boston, .429, Cuthaw, Brooklyn, .417, Daubert, Brooklyn, .400, Clarke, Cincinnati, .400; Whitted, Philadelphia .385, Doyle, New York champion last year, .385, Magee, Boston, .375, Niehoff, Philadelphia .375, Hinchman, Pittsburgh, .364, Konetchy, Boston, Kauff, New York, .359, New York, and Baird, Pittsburgh, .333. Helne Groh, Cincinnati, leads in runs scored with six and is tied with Whitted, Philadelphia, in total bases at 12.

National League pitchers are led by Alexander, Philadelphia, with two games won and none lost, and Schneider, Cincinnati, with the same record.

Ty Cobb evidently has not struck his stride for he is far below the .333 class, having hit for only .231. Following Janvria in the .333 class are Speaker, Cleveland, .474, Henriksen, Boston, .429, Gedeon, New York .429, Baker, New York, .355, Pratt, St. Louis, .360, Hobbittel, Boston .353, Schaik, Chicago, .316. BUSINESS INCREASES
DESPITE WAR TALKDun's Shows Big Demand in Face of Higher Prices.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Dun's Review in its issue tomorrow has this to say regarding trade conditions.

All elements considered, it is remarkable that business continues so large in volume. International complications—intensified by the developments of the week—fail to shake confidence or to check progress, nor have the extremely high costs diminished consumptive buying. The magnitude of demand, holding in spite of the general and extensive rise in prices, becomes more noteworthy and transactions, though not yet at the maximum, run far beyond precedent. Outputs in leading lines largely surpass those of any previous year; yet all requirements are not being filled, because many producers are either unable to obtain a sufficient supply of materials and of skilled labor or are booked so far ahead that additional contracts cannot be taken. Transportation facilities continue inadequate, but some headway is made in relieving the traffic congestion and there is less complaint of retarded deliveries. Further wage advances are most cases voluntary, testify to great industrial prosperity and, with millions of dollars added to payrolls, savings deposits accumulate. The augmented purchasing power of consumers, however, is not yet fully reflected in the mercantile field, owing to backward weather in many sections. Easter business, while probably unprecedented in the aggregate, would have attained even larger proportions under more favorable conditions. Retail sales of footwear are not up to expectations, but manufacturers are pushed with orders for the spring trade and distribution of dry goods, both at wholesale and in the department stores, continues very satisfactory. A gratifying feature of many reports, especially those from the East and West, is the improvement in collections. This strengthens the credit position and tends to lower the commercial death-rate, fewer concerns failing this month than in March, while the mortality is still much higher than a year ago. All important statistical gauges point one way. While the increases in bank clearings appear less striking than previously because of business was reviving at the time last year, augmentation of railroad earnings, continued, and merchandise exports from New York are still in colossal volume, evidence of shipping facilities being inadequate to handle the great rush of traffic.

ELIDA

The M. E. W. F. M. S. will give a public thank offering meeting next Sunday evening, at the church, to which everybody is cordially invited.

Mrs. C. J. Stenmett, who has been entertained by the Daisy Embroidery club at her home, Wednesday evening. Only ten members were present, owing to so much sickness in many families. A dainty luncheon was served at 8:30, after which Mr. Stenmett played many beautiful selections on the piano.

There will be a quarterly meeting and institute at the U. B. church, on Saturday, April 22. Rev. M. R. Ballinger will conduct the meeting and assist in the institute. Services open at 1 p. m., and continue afternoon and evening. Several topics will be discussed by laymen and Rev. O. E. Knepp of Lima, will be one of the speakers. Communion, Easter service and baptism on Sunday morning.

Willis Huffer and grandmother, Mrs. Daniel Staver, of Allentown, spent Sunday with the latter's son, Jacob Staver, and family, of Union Chapel, north of Lima.

The M. E. W. F. M. S. will meet next Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. D. Critch.

W. E. Onstott will have a sale of household goods at his home next Saturday.

Oliver Heath has sold his property to John Stalter of Kempton.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Maxson of Middlepoint, were Sunday guests at the home of J. W. Madden and family.

Mrs. J. H. Enslin entertained the B. B. Embroidery club at her home, last Friday evening. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. J. B. Sawmiller.

Friends here received announcements of the birth of a daughter to Rev. W. E. Ward and wife of Toledo, a former pastor here.

Curtis Hilyard of Scranton, Pa., visited several days with his mother and relatives here.

Vern Huffer and family have moved from Lima into their property here.

The W. C. T. U. held its regular meeting last Monday evening at the home of Mrs. E. E. Leidy. Mrs. Jessie Miller was leader.

Mrs. Doris Briggs was operated upon at the Lima hospital last Wednesday.

MARKETS

SELLING CRUMBLES
WALL ST. STOCKS

NEW YORK, April 22.—Urgent liquidation of special stocks, which crumbled rapidly under the weight of heavy offerings, featured today's short but extremely unsettled session. Increased tension in the German and Mexican situations was again the chief contributing factor. Extreme declines of 3 to 5 points were made by the munitions group, which touched lowest averages of the year. Mexican registers more severe losses, Petroleum falling 9 points. U. S. Steel and the investment division, including prominent rails, were heavy, but yielded gradually. Mercantile Marine preferred was for a time the sole element of strength but even there price concessions occurred. Irregular recoveries marked the late dealings but the rally was not maintained. The closing was weak. Bonds were active and weak.

Resumption of trading after the holiday was attended by further shrinkage of values, the war group and Mexicans displaying marked weakness. Indication that Germany would delay her reply to the recent note from Washington were accepted with misgivings. In the course of the first fifteen minutes there were declines of two to five points in Crucible Steel, Studebaker, General Electric, Westinghouse, Baldwin Locomotive and Industrial Alcohol while Mexican Petroleum, American Smelting and Greene Cananea were lower by 2 to almost 3 points. United States Steel and the investment division were heavy. Marines were firm and active. The last sales were:

DIPLOMATIC OUTLOOK
PULLS WHEAT DOWN

CHICAGO, April 22.—Uncertainty of the diplomatic outlook tended today to pull down prices in the wheat market. Opening quotations, which varied from the same as Thursday's close to 1-2 lower, with May at $1.13 3-4 to 1 1/4 and July at $1.13 3-8 to 5-8, were followed by slight rallies and then a decided setback all around.

Corn eased off with wheat. Warehouse interests took a conspicuous part in the selling. After opening 1-8 off to 1-4 up, the market hardened a trifle, and then underwent a moderate general sag.

Oats showed sympathy for the weakness of other grain. Field reports were also against the bulls.

"Higher prices on hogs gave strength to provisions. Besides, provisions shipments for the week exceeded largely the corresponding totals a year ago.

ISSUES SKETCH TO TELL HISTORY OF SMITHSONIAN

Institution Nearing Seventieth Year, Activities on Wide Scope.

Smithson's Bequest to Land He Never Saw, Gives $600,000 Yearly.

The Smithsonian Institution has written a biographical sketch of itself telling how it originated and of the purpose of its work.

"The Smithsonian Institution," says the booklet, "is a unique establishment for the furtherance of knowledge; its object is to carry on and aid general scientific investigations, whether they be geological, biological or anthropological—the study of the earth, its life, or man himself—and to disseminate the same throughout the world by means of its various series of publications."

"The institution was founded at Washington city in 1846 under the terms of the will of James Smithson, an Englishman, who bequeathed his fortune to the United States of America, to found at Washington, under the name of the Smithsonian Institution, an establishment for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men."

"Smithson, himself a scientist of note, a graduate of Oxford university and a Fellow of the Royal Society, maintained that 'Every man is a valuable member of society, who by his observations, researches and experiments, procures knowledge for men,' and it was not unusual that he should leave behind him funds for the purpose of carrying out his ideals."

"He died in Genoa, Italy, in 1829 three years after making his will."

The sketch neglects to say Smithson never was in America.

In National in Scope.

"Following many delays and much deliberation," continues the booklet, "congress accepted the bequest and enacted a law organizing the institution in 1846. It is national in its scope and governmental in its affiliations, its statutory members being the president, the vice president and the chief justice of the United States together with the president's cabinet."

"Its governing body, known as the Board of Regents, includes the vice president and the chief justice, as ex-officio members, three members of the senate, three members of the house of representatives, and six citizens of the United States appointed by joint resolution of congress. The secretary of the institution, elected by the Board of Regents, is the executive officer and director of its operations."

"The institution proper is maintained by the income of a permanent fund comprising the original Smithson bequest and legacy of $541,000, the accumulated interest on which, with other gifts and bequests, has brought the total fund to a little more than $1,000,000. The regents are empowered to accept gifts in furtherance of the purposes of the institution, without special congressional action, and to administer trusts in accord therewith. In this connection many important researches and explorations have been aided by special trusts provided by patrons of the institution."

"Several bureaus or branches, developed through its early activities are administered by the institution with the aid of congressional appropriations amounting to about $600,000 annually. These comprise the United States National Museum, including the National Gallery of Art, the International Exchange Service, the Bureau of American Ethnology, the National Zoological Park, the Astrophysical Observatory, and the United States Regional Bureau of the International Catalogue of Scientific Literature."

Has High Educational Value.

"While the Smithsonian is not an educational institution in the nature of a university with a corps of professors and a student body, its educational functions are of the highest rank, for its scientific staff and its many collaborators are constantly engaged in investigations in which students of all branches of science participate, and the museum collections, the animals in the zoological park, as well as the library and the various publications are constant sources of information to specialists and students."

"For the increase of knowledge the institution aids investigators by limited grants for research and exploration. It advises the government in many matters of scientific importance and co-operates with all the governmental departments and numerous scientific and historical organizations. Through assistance rendered by special bequests and funds it has advanced science in connection with atmospheric air and aviation."

"In general its activities embrace all branches of natural science, fine arts and industrial arts, its scope being world-wide. Since its establishment it has participated in astronomical, meteorological, geographical, biological and geological expeditions in nearly every portion of the world, resulting in vast increase in knowledge and in the acquisition of a great amount of valuable material for the National Museum."

Issues Free Publications.

"For the diffusion of knowledge there are issued several series of publications constituting original contributions to knowledge, accounts of explorations and investigations, and papers recording annual progress in the field of science, all of which are distributed gratuitously to important libraries."

PIONEER'S FUNERAL

Funeral services for Mrs. Rosanna M. Franklin, pioneer resident of Perry township, were held this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, at Garfield chapel. On account of the long residence of Mrs. Franklin in the community, the services were largely attended by friends.

Interment was at Perry chapel cemetery.

GIVES CHURCH SCHOOL SITE?

AKRON, O., April 22.—A large preparatory school is to be established at Hudson by the Presbyterian church educational board, according to rumors there today. J. W. Ellsworth, Hudson millionaire, is said to have offered the buildings and grounds of the old Western Reserve academy to the Presbyterian board for that purpose.

OHIO TROOP CAMP SITE READY.

PORT CLINTON, O., April 22.—Adjutant General B. W. Hough at Camp Perry said the state grounds and ranges are ready for the state encampment which starts in June with the school for commissioned and non-commissioned officers. The eight regiments and Ninth battalions will camp here from July until September, one regiment a week.

Era in Bridge Building.

Introduction of the semicircular arch in bridge building in England met with complaint on behalf of the Tweedside people, because the roadway over it being almost level, as one old man said, "You did not know when you were on it and when you were off it." The first iron arch constructed was made in England at Coalbrookdale by one Darby. The bridge consists of one semicircular arch, 100-foot span, each of the ribs being cast in two pieces only. It was opened for traffic in 1779, and a new era in the art of bridge building was thus entered upon. Up to 1800 cast iron was predominant in bridge construction, and although it is believed that wrought iron was introduced before 1800 it does not appear to have been extensively used before 1860.

Man and Flight.

Mathematicians have calculated that man is too heavy ever to be sustained in air by the power of his own muscles, no matter how large the wings are which he fastens to his body. The weight limit is probably approached by the largest birds, such as the Australian crane, which still flies, although it weighs about 20 pounds. The ostrich long ago gave up all hope of winging its way through the air. An aeroplane can be built, say the experts, which will sustain a man and use but three horsepower, but as the best athletes can exert only a maximum of about two horsepower for 15 seconds at a time, he will always be dependent on a machine.

DREAD OF SNAKES COMMON TO NEARLY THE ENTIRE WORLD

All Due to the Early Experiences of the Human Race.

Persons Informed Know a Great Majority of Rep-tiles Are Harmless.

Is the fact that most of us are instinctively afraid of snakes—even of the harmless kinds—an evidence that the human race originated on the continent of Asia, where serpents of all sorts have always been abundant and generally venomous?

This abhorrence of serpents is really a deep-seated animal instinct which has survived long after the conditions that gave it origin.

Rational persons who are informed on the subject know that the great majority of the snakes to be encountered in this country are entirely harmless, being without venom or fangs; and, indeed, the writer has determined, to his own satisfaction at least, that in this particular region the only one of the snake family that is a menace to human life is the now rarely encountered Crotalus horridus, using the term in a generic sense.

And yet, any intelligent person when unexpectedly brought into close proximity to any kind of a snake, large or small, venomous or non-venomous, or even a semblance of a snake, is suddenly seized by a panic of horror and fear, with an impulse to spring away out of the serpent's reach as quickly as possible in a sort of blind terror.

Origin of Dread.

The probable origin of this instinctive horror of serpents that still dominates the mind of civilized man was during the countless generations when early man was slowly climbing up from his animal ancestry to his present eminence as Homo sapiens. Being without fire and without clothing or shelter, he was peculiarly defenseless in an environment beset by deadly serpents, against this, probably the greatest danger and greatest menace to racial survival that he had to encounter. Hence his instinctive horror of the serpent form.

The idea that India was the "cradle" of the white race at least, with its serpent environment threatening racial existence for a very long period of its primitive development, appears to receive some degree of confirmation from the fact that among the inhabitants of India at the present time the annual mortality from attacks of serpents exceeds 20,000, notwithstanding the efforts of the British authorities to suppress the evil.

The serpent-instinct in man has a close analogy in a similar instinct that characterizes the domestic horse of the present time, to which horse of the present time, to which allusion has been made by writers on the subject. It is a familiar fact to every one who has to do with horses, the proneness of the horse to exhibit an insane and uncontrollable fear of any unfamiliar wayside object. Indeed, the phenomenon is such a commonplace that probably very few persons have given a thought in explanation of what appears to be a wholly unaccountable mystery.

The suggestion that has been offered with compelling force to account for this curious horse-instinct is on parallel lines with that offered above to account for man's serpent-instinct, both of which in the nature of animal instincts are intense and deep-seated and have long survived the conditions that gave rise to them.

Case of the Horse.

In the case of the horse, for a very long period of his racial development he was subjected to one danger exceeding all others in magnitude by which survival was constantly threatened. This danger was embodied in the predaceous beasts that infested the horse's early environment, mainly of the feline family that lay in wait concealed by bushes or other cover for the opportunity to spring upon him and devour him. The horse had no means of defense against this danger except alertness in eluding the spring of his enemy and fleetness of foot to escape pursuit. The individual horses that developed these qualities most highly survived, while those that failed to reach an efficient standard fell victims to their enemies.

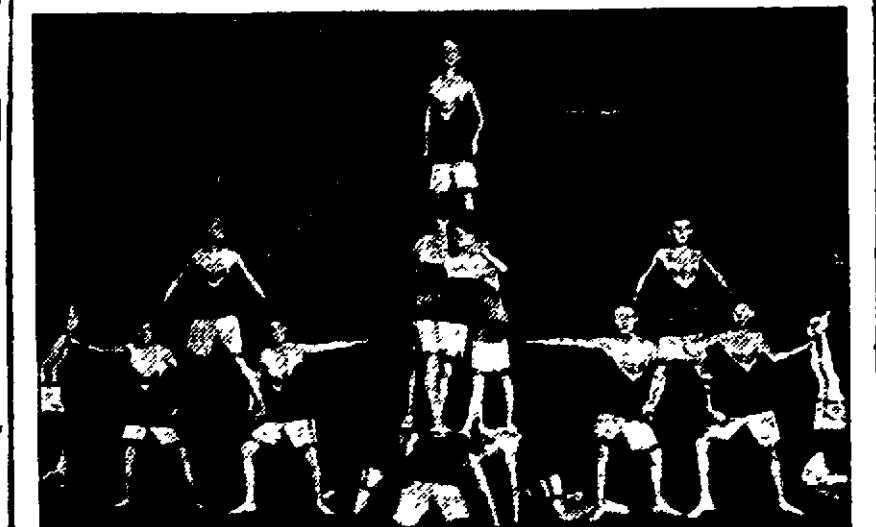

And we now see, thousands of years after the domestication of the horse, that he suddenly falls into a senseless panic and flees at break-neck speed from an imaginary danger behind him, heedless of real dangers ahead which not infrequently cause him a broken neck.

The instinctive fear of imaginary dangers in the horse, and the same kind of fear of serpents in man, appear to have had a similar genesis in the early experiences of both races.

TO THE FUN HUNGER OF BOYS THE Y.M.C.A. RESPONDS

Y. M. C. A. Gym Boys.

"Country boys are not forsaking the farm and going to the city because they are money hungry, but because they are fun hungry," said Prof. G. Walter Fluke of Oberlin the other day to a group of men engaged in work for boys.

The leaders in the Lima Y. M. C. A. say that boys are about the same wherever found, as far as appetite for food and for fun is concerned, and that in the modern city the fun hunger must be recognized and satisfied if the boy is to develop normally.

In the gymnasium systematic work that develops every muscle and organ in the body is turned into fun while the great lesson of team work, which later in life we call co-operation, is taught unconsciously.

Boys' Secretary Rooney is making the play instinct of the boy contribute to the ideals of clean sport and clean speech, he directs the grammar school baseball league with nine teams now in its fifth season.

This league takes in the boys from every grammar school in Lima. Through hikes and camps in summer and socials and games of every kind in winter the boys of the "Y" have the great boon of organized play under experienced and devoted leaders.

The experience of Chicago and other large cities proves that the boys who have a chance for play of this kind are rarely in trouble with the police or in difficulty at the juvenile court.

The new Y. M. C. A. building to which Lima citizens will soon be asked to subscribe will be the big center for the organized play life of the boys and men of the city. Men are renewing their youth these days as they are learning again to play in the well equipped gymnasiums of the Young Men's Christian association.

The promoter of commercialized amusements recognizes the widespread existence of the "fun hunger." He takes from the youth his money and in many cases his high ideals. The association helps conserve these and develop all the best in his life. It costs something but is worth while.

THE HISTORY OF SUBMARINE MATTERS UP TO PRESENT TIME

On February 4, 1915, the German government issued a proclamation declaring the waters around the British Isles a war zone, and giving notice that, after February 18, all merchant ships owned by the enemy powers would be sunk.

On February 19, the United States sent a note of protest against Germany's submarine warfare on the ground that Americans traveling on British and French ships would be imperiled.

On May 7, the liner Lusitania was sunk with the loss of about 1,200 lives, more than 100 of the victims being Americans. Six days later the United States sent a note to Germany protesting against the method employed in the submarine campaign and against the destruction of the Lusitania, which was not given any warning. The note stated that Germany could not expect the United States to omit any word or act necessary to the performance of its sacred duty of safeguarding American lives at sea.

Then began an exchange of notes between the United States and Germany with the United States maintaining that the German government would be held to strict accountability.

The German government on May 28, set up the contention that the Lusitania was armed and was carrying munitions (contraband of war.)

On June 10 the United States denied that the Lusitania was armed and insisting that Germany make proper reparation, promise not to sink any more ships without warning and give guarantee that suspected ships be searched and warned before any attack be made upon them.

The German answer to this note was tendered on July 9. It suggested that Americans not imperil themselves by taking passage upon merchant ships owned by England and carrying contraband of war but use ships flying the United States flag.

On August 19 the Arabic was torpedoed off Fastnet, two Americans losing their lives. Nine days later Count Von Bernstorff promised full satisfaction for the Arabic, and on September 1 announcement was made that Germany accepted the American contention in the submarine controversy, and two days later Germany offered counter proposals that American claims in the Arabic case be submitted to The Hague tribunal for adjustment.

In the meantime Germany was delaying a reply to another United States note relative to the Lusitania and other submarine policy in general which the United States had submitted on July 21, and the United States asked for an immediate answer.

On September 10 Germany replied with explanations and promises.

On October 5 Count Von Bernstorff presented a note to the United States conceding disavowal and reparation in the Arabic case.

The controversy continued with periods when an agreement seemed near and others when a break appeared imminent.

On February 11, last, Germany announced that she would sink all armed lines.

On February 24 President Wilson sent a letter to Senator Stone, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, announcing that the attitude of this country toward the submarine question had not changed and that "he would not consent to the abridgement of the rights of American citizens at sea."

In the meantime notes were sent protesting against the sinking of ships on which Americans were voyaging, the latest pertaining to the channel liner Sussex.

PEARL FIVE MILLION YEARS OLD IS FOUND

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif.,
April 22.—A pearl estimated to have been formed five million years ago and said to be the oldest specimen of its kind in the world, was found by Stanley C. Herrold, a Stanford student, six months ago, it became known today. The pearl will be presented to the Stanford Museum.

The pearl, oyster and cockleshell, in which it was imbedded, came to Stanford in consignation of geological material from the coast of the state of Washington.

According to university authorities the pearl is of little value as a gem, but the oyster in which it was found originated, they say probably in the Paleozoic period, but which they have credited to the Eocene Epoch.
